

G. A. R. VETERANS LISTEN TO MEMORIAL DAY ADDRESS BY REV. W. H. M'PEAK SUNDAY

Memorial day is the greatest day in the annals of American liberty because of what it teaches of the past, and of the future, and—

"There are those who live in America today; some have come from other lands and some have been born here since those stirring days (of the Civil war), who do not know and, some of them, do not care to know how much it cost to provide the privileges and liberties of America—who ought to be made to realize that our privileges have been blood-bought and are therefore to be held sacred."

That solemn rebuke of those a thousand miles from home, who ignore patriotism or fail to appreciate the blessings of the American government was part of a ringing address entitled "The Faith of Our Fathers," delivered by the Rev. W. H. McPeak, pastor of the United Presbyterian church, at the memorial service of Sedgewick post No. 17, G. A. R.

The discourse was based upon heroes and heroism reaching back to biblical times, the pastor quoting a proverb that "nothing moves men like tales of heroism." He quoted from Hebrews 11:32, 34—"What shall I more say? for the time will fall me if I tell of Gideon, Barak, Samson, Jephthah; of David and Samuel and the prophets; who were mightily in war, turned to flight armies of aliens." Referring to more modern heroes, he cited the world-wide admiration for Captain Charles Lindbergh, transatlantic flyer, and the national pride in the feats of Sergeant Alvin York, Tennessee mountaineer, who won fighting fame in the World war.

The Rev. McPeak gave four reasons for his assertion that Memorial day is the greatest in the annals of liberty. It marks the end of a conflict that was at once a noble cause and a glorious victory; it teaches the lesson to the rising generation that our privileges have been blood-bought; it has done more than any other day to remove sectionalism and it is the day of all days when our hearts are stirred by the faith of our fathers, he said.

War is costly, he declared, "bids us look backward and also bids us look forward." It teaches that war is a costly thing, and it "brings us a message of gratitude and hope," for memory is the mother of gratitude, he said.

The text of the address follows: "What shall I more say? for the time will fall me if I tell of Gideon, Barak, Samson, Jephthah; of David and Samuel and the prophets; who were mightily in war, turned to flight armies of aliens." Hebrews 11:32, 34.

"It is a proverb, that nothing moves men like tales of heroism. Poets, men of imagination and orators have moved multitudes when they have told the story of some heroic service. What American was not thrilled when the news was flashed that Capt. Charles Lindbergh had successfully completed his flight from New York to Paris; driving his plane, alone, into the fog, rain, wind and the night? Or that other American hero, Alvin York, from the Tennessee mountains, who, lone hand, silenced 21 German machine gun nests and brought the gunners behind the American lines. There was Chinese Gordon on Sunday morning, January 25, 1885, when the gates of the doomed city of Khartoum were thrown open by treachery and the blood-thirsty Mahdi of the desert rushed into the city with the cry: 'On to the palace—Gordon stepped forth as a friend, was struck in the breast by a thrown javelin, and the man who is known as the hero of the Egyptian Sudan fell dead. Or Socrates, whose judges condemned him to prison and poison. Socrates said: 'At what price would one not estimate one night of noble conference with Homer and Hesiod. You, my judges, go home to your banquets—I go to hemlock and death; but whether it is better for me or for you, God knoweth.' There is the story of Xenophon's 1000 young Greeks, lost taught on Memorial day. It gives a voice to every soldier's grave. They, being dead, yet speak. Every grave speaks of the value of liberty, equality, fraternity, unity. They tell us what it cost to secure these privileges.

"Think of the price that was paid for our privileges by those who fought in the Civil war. A million men of the North and over against these a million men from the South, on a battle line a thousand miles long. Including long and short term men, 8,000,000 were engaged in that conflict. There were 2261 engagements of all kinds, and in 148 of these the Federal loss was 500 or more. According to Philister's official record, at Gettysburg, 55,000 were reported as wounded, killed or missing. As many soldiers died in southern prisons as fell on both sides at Gettysburg. The hillsides of the South were billowed with the dead and dying. Think of the army of crippled heroes who came home from the Civil war to suffer the remainder of their days as soldiers, who, during four years of war, poured out all their vital nerve force and when the war was over, brought back a wrecked physical body. Think of the widows and the orphan children. These are mighty witnesses of the value of our privileges of American citizenship. . . . There are those who live in America today; some have come from other lands and some have been born here since those stirring days (of the Civil war), who do not know and, some of them, do not care to know how much it cost to provide the privileges and liberties of America; who ought to be made to realize that our privileges have been blood-bought and are therefore to be held sacred."

Removes Sectionalism
"3.—There is no day in our national calendar which has done more to remove sectionalism from our midst than Memorial day. The heart of the nation has been softened as it has gone once a year to lay flowers on the graves of its departed heroes. In the sixties the nation was rent in twain; but, thank God, with the trend of subsequent events the two parts of this nation, once separated, have been brought together.

ORANGE COUNTY IS VISITED BY LARGE CROWDS

A magnet to pleasure seekers and excursion parties, Orange county with its various beaches, its country park and other attractions, yesterday and today entertained probably the greatest week-end crowds in its history.

It is estimated that for the two-day holiday period close to 40,000 people flocked to Orange county resorts from Los Angeles and other points in the southland. At a late hour last night, with the hotels and rooming houses practically sold out, they were still coming in. St. Ann's Inn, Hotel Rossmore and Hotel Finley and others reported capacity houses. A large number of pleasure seekers, having planned to spend the week-end at Balboa, Laguna Beach and Capistrano Beach, were unable to secure sleeping accommodations at these places and had to spend the night in Santa Ana.

All records for patronage at the various restaurants and eating places were shattered yesterday with the arrival of the holiday crowds. The march on San Diego began Saturday forenoon. Early in the afternoon of that day all roads leading south, were alive with traffic. The main highway, leading out from Whittier boulevard through Fullerton and Anaheim displayed a veritable caravan of south-bound machines. Equally crowded with traffic was Seventeenth street leading out from Long Beach and the Long Beach-Huntington Beach-Newport Beach coast highway.

On former holidays, especially when they came at the end or beginning of a week, giving pleasure seekers two days of rest, Orange county resorts have been crowded.

Realizing this, plans were laid to accommodate yesterday's hosts. But they came even more thickly than estimated in advance. Hotel clerks and restaurant workers had their hands full and local ice cream concerns, dairies and laundry establishments had to respond to several emergency calls.

Today's crowd is expected to be fully as great until late in the afternoon when the exodus will begin, and when there will be another rush in the opposite direction.

Yesterday's travel, in the opinion of hotel and restaurant men, is only another indication of the manner in which Orange county resorts have grown in popularity with the Southland's holiday crowds.

Makes Parachute Jump 2500 Feet

Without mishap, Frank Austin, record holder for low altitude, made a parachute jump from a height of 2500 feet at the Eddie Martin airport, south of Santa Ana, yesterday afternoon before the largest crowd that has witnessed the air spectacle this season. Several hundred people were on the field to view the program of air stunts given at the airport.

The parachute jump was the first event held. Thrills were provided when Sacha "Peggy" Hall, Santa Ana girl air pilot, went up to perform a series of stunts.

One of the most unusual feats was the performance of Eddie Martin in maneuvering a ship from the start to the landing while he had his hands bound. He operated the stick with his knees and feet with such skill that the ship was under complete control even to making a perfect landing after his flight.

Gas balloons, released during the afternoon, were recaptured and broken by Martin for the entertainment of the onlookers.

The average daily movement of all freight cars on American railroads, loaded and unloaded is thirty miles.

WHILE BANDS PLAY AND COLORS GO BY on this day of memories

In our hearts there is something even more stirring and inspiring than martial music—something brighter than the colors of the parade. It is the honor we feel for the spirit of the veterans who are here—and the spirit of those who gave their youth to the fire of Gettysburg, San Juan and Belleau Woods.

For Sale, a Baby!

Think of the storm of indignation such a sign or advertisement would arouse. You probably will never see it. You do read notices daily that call attention to the sale of furniture, automobiles, real estate, etc., to satisfy a claim for non-payment of the account. These circumstances are not pleasant but they are legal. They represent the last step in a transaction in which the individual securing the merchandise and service failed to complete his or her obligation to pay for it.

There are hundreds of infants (and some young folks) in this community whose entrance fee into this world has not yet been paid for. The physicians who answer calls at all hours of the night to give devoted service in these cases make many sacrifices in both time and money. They answer the anxious call and give unsparingly of their skill, and time until the emergency has passed and a proud Dad and happy mother are joyfully telling friends of their happiness.

Then what? The physician serves until his attention is no longer required on the case but he is equally busy with others. Time passes and he does not find time to send a statement or a collector. He knows he should, but he feels that to do so would take time that is urgently needed elsewhere.

Does the father appreciate just what his friend the physician has meant to him? In a vague way, yes. But there are many who do not show even as much interest in paying for the service rendered as they do in their monthly garage bill.

Is this because the garage man can reclaim the car and offer it for sale? Perhaps not, but the fact remains that a service that helps men and women enjoy God's greatest blessing is left unpaid, for much longer periods, than any other accounts are allowed to run.

No group of men in the world perform a greater service to mankind than our physicians. When you call a regular, recognized M. D. you know you are to have the most intelligent and conscientious service nearly a score of years of experience can provide. You know you will be treated fairly and the least you can do is pay the small fee promptly.

Those who can, should pay cash and others should be fair enough to discuss conditions frankly with their physician and make some definite arrangements. To do less is to encourage a higher rate of fees and perhaps a plan which will mean more and more physicians will adopt a cash basis plan, as many other professions and institutions have done.

THEATER MEN DROP TILT TO SENATORS

The winning streak of the West Coast-Walker theater's indoor baseball team, which had extended to four in a row, was broken Saturday by the Santa Ana Senators, formerly known as the Lathropites, who triumphed the Scene-Shifters, 22 to 12.

W. Jordan, Merchant, Forrest, Sheriff, McClesney, Gaspar, H. Jordan, Smith and Tiscaren were in the Senators' lineup while Thompson, Langley, Taylor, Stumpf, McWilliams, Baird, Hill, Schroeder and McCowen represented the West Coast-Walker team.

Current Comment By CHESTER H. ROWELL

President Coolidge even if there were such a law, it would not apply to him. Technically, if it were a technical question, his next term would be his second one. It is only because it is not a technical question that it assumes any importance at all. Being a question of sentiment, the only question is how it would affect popular sentiment. The present indications are that it would not affect it at all. It is a "talking point," not an argument, nor a real consideration.

'WHITE HOUSE SPOKESMAN' IS PUT TO DEATH

WASHINGTON, May 30.—"That little White House bird"—the one that used to tell Washington correspondents all the things they should and shouldn't know, has come back to life again.

When "The White House Spokesman," mysterious stranger who told the newspaper men what the president thought, was born, "that little bird" died. Now that the White House spokesman has been put to death, the little bird has been revived.

Who was this White House spokesman? For the benefit of posterity, let it now be said by one who saw the spokesman in action that he was none other than President Coolidge.

It would have been a journalistic faux pas to have said as much a month ago. Correspondents had to content themselves with merely pointing out that the spokesman was a sandy-haired fellow who bore a remarkable resemblance to Mr. Coolidge, talked in a nasal twang, sat in the president's chair, smoked the president's cigars and even wore the presidential pants.

But now the spokesman is gone and it seems perfectly proper for your correspondent to tell all. All that is, except how the spokesman came to his untimely end—a good story which is still under the ban. Man of Straw
The Washington correspondents supposed that virtually every American citizen of literate age had long since come to realize just who the White House spokesman was. But inquiries from prominent business men who attended the recent chamber of commerce meetings here tended to explode that supposition.

Four correspondents, for instance, encountered a widely traveled gentleman from the middle west who is internationally known as a manufacturer of perfume squirts. He had heard vague rumors that the spokesman and Mr. Coolidge were one and the same, but he was no less than astonished to hear them confirmed.

This indicates that millions of taxpayers believed right up to the death that they were paying the salary of some special agent who did the president's talking for him.

The White House correspondence files are not so easily open to inspection, but there can hardly be any doubt that some requests for the job have been received from deservng Republicans.
The spokesman came in for plenty of criticism, all of which may not have been deserved. He served a useful purpose both for the president and the newspapers. Whether or not President Coolidge killed him, President Coolidge certainly didn't give birth to him. The correspondents, permitted to submit questions to the president twice a week, were never allowed to quote the president directly under Wilson, Harding or Coolidge, who all held press conferences. You could not write that the president had said this or denied that. The president felt that people should have such news as he could give them, but interposed a screen of protective coloration which saved him from being put down in black and white and in person when he discussed all sorts of subjects a hundred times a year.

This led to all sort of dodges. "It was said at the White House," "It was said on behalf of President Coolidge," "the president thinks that—" "It was said today on high authority" and many more familiar subterfuges. Finally the term "White House Spokesman" began to become a term of the trade and that is how the thing began. Chapshooters Get Busy
Certain sands in human form, senatorial, journalistic and otherwise, then took an occasional pot-

Parents Should Select Clothing Goods With Care

WASHINGTON, May 30.—The fact that most children have no fear of dirt should be taken into consideration in purchasing wash cotton fabrics for children's clothing, according to home economic experts.

With printed wash fabrics in all weights of cotton materials popular, they advise the purchase only of well known brands and the taking home of a sample to wash to see that the color is fast.

Voiles printed in geometric designs are new this year, they add, and some, in black and white, gray or blue, are especially suitable for older women.

Batiste, dimity and organdy fabrics are recommended for hot summer afternoon wear, while zephyrs, cotton charmeuse and corded materials are suggested as excellent materials for house dresses and for the small daughter's school and play dresses, printed batiste, organdy and lawn are suggested as appropriate fabrics.

EVERYTHING WELL SAVE GOVERNMENT

MANILA, May 30.—All's well in the Philippines save the government, according to the American Chamber of Commerce Journal, which recognizes in American government without the constitution only a makeshift means of administration under a bureaucracy. It says editorially:

"Attention of men looking about for interesting things to do is bound to turn toward the Philippines soon. Established industries are expanding; new industries will come and sooner, we predict, than any material legislation in congress. Time works for the islands. He can't be prodded, but he is faithful. Truth is that under halfway capable management or better it is hard to lose money in the Philippines in any profit-seeking activity from planting to peddling. Even the United States seems to be finding this out. More plants, more planters, still more planters, is the imperative need. American plantation interests were never in better condition than they are now, the same is true of native interests. The experimental period past, the period of expansion follows inevitably. Prospects are good."

shot at the White House spokesman where a similar pot-shot at the president himself would have been very poor form. The sarcastic Jim Reed cut loose on the spokesman on more than one occasion.

Now and then the correspondents became sore when they said the spokesman said something at one conference and then claimed misinterpretation or misquotation at the next.

There is every reason to believe that the term "White House spokesman" finally became a bore to the president. It was, in fact, becoming a joke in some quarters and after all some offices are entitled to a certain dignity. Anyway, the spokesman was quietly and painlessly put out of his misery.

Now the correspondents again are writing "the president made clear today," "a little bird says the president's sentiments are—" or what have you?

SNAKES, BIRDS, ANIMALS, NEW SOCIETY FADS

LONDON, May 30.—Preparations by London's smart set for the social season, include this year a through canvass of the shops where parrots, snakes, monkeys and animals, preferably of a freakish nature, can be bought or rented for a night. For a fad of introducing birds, reptiles or animals at fashionable dinners which was tentatively experimented with last fall, is very much in vogue this spring.

Probably the most popular of the pets are gorgeous feathered macaws, which not only add a brilliant touch of color to a room, but are intelligent talkers. Dealers are training their macaws to greet incoming guests with "Good evening," and the outgoing, "Good night," and the outgoing, "Good night, pleasant dreams." These are stock phrases. The exciting part about renting a macaw is what phrases he knows in addition to the formal good evenings and goodnights. There is always a chance he has picked up a wonderful line of profanity somewhere or further that he can make unflattering remarks about the guests.

But even if he isn't given to these sideline diversions the macaw is sure to keep up a lively chatter, interspersed with laughter and whistling. And if his vocabulary is found to have been neglected, there is always a chance for a diverting fifteen minutes adding to it words calculated to make the next hostess that rents suddenly sit up straight in pained and shocked surprise.

Monkeys are also in some demand, while for a real thriller, one of the monkey shops has in reserve a large aise, but amiable baboon, which, let into the dinner at the right psychological moment, can always be counted on to furnish a "wow" of a diversion. The same shop also keeps in stock a couple of eight foot snakes, whose fangs and poison pouches have been removed. Brought to the table in a huge chafing dish and let loose on the table these snakes are sent with a written guarantee that they will take the edge of monotony off even the duller dinner.

American hostesses in London have acquired an entirely unearned and undeserved reputation for "stunt" parties, which are considered "not quite the thing" in British society circles.

The origin of the "reputation" can be laid at the doors of the daily, and more yellow newspapers which will take any ordinary dinner party given by an American hostess in London and twist it and turn it until it resembles something out of a society drama a la Hollywood. In other words, something that isn't "done."

Just the opposite, however, is the case. There is a group of American-born London hostesses who are bound together, whether they admit it or not, to refuse to countenance any of their countrywomen who offend against good taste in this way.

Following the example of Diogenes, who established his home in a barrel, a man of Charleroi, in northern France, has been living in a bath tub for the past three years.

In St. Denis' Abbey, Paris, are enshrined the hearts of Henry III and IV, and of Louis XIII, XIV, and XVIII.

COTTON IS DUSTED BY AIRPLANES NOW

NEW YORK, May 30.—Cotton growers of Dixie and of Peru, favored by the alternation of their seasons, have found in the airplanes of a large cotton dusting concern a common ally against their enemy, the boll weevil.

Growers have long known that dusting the crop with calcium arsenate increases the yield about one third, but it is only recently that a method has been perfected for spreading the dust in swaths 200 yards wide at the rate of 90 miles an hour.

The planes covered some 50,000 acres in Peru last season and expect to cover about four times this area in the United States this year.

The dusting apparatus appears simple. Forward of the cockpit is a compartment which in the smaller planes holds 400 pounds of calcium arsenate, and in the larger, 800 pounds. At the bottom is a slot, opened by a lever, through which the dust is released.

In order that the dust will flow freely and will be properly spread, a chute has been devised below the fuselage, with a slot so arranged that the rush of air under the plane creates a vacuum and sucks the dust down, blowing it out below. The propeller and the press of the wings blow it back and down, spreading it evenly over the field.

Divorce is common among the Greenland Eskimos and it is not unusual for a woman without children to be married nine or ten times.

Bride-elect of June
Is Complimented
At Shower

Miss Ethel Blancher, whose marriage to Darwin Scott is an anticipated event of early June, found herself surrounded by her friends one evening late last week when they gathered at her home, 1009 Spurgeon street, for a surprise planned by her mother, Mrs. Stanley Blancher.

The young people devoted the early part of the evening to 500, and then turned their attention to the writing of favorite recipes, for the bride-elect to try in the near future. In the meantime, pretty rewards for the card games, were presented to Miss Lina Dunn, scoring high, and Miss Dorothy Lutz, low.

Many pink and white flowers were used to adorn the home, and also to center the small tables for the refreshment hour when Mrs. Blancher served a two-course menu with the assistance of her daughter, Mrs. Jack Scott.

The guests took the opportunity of showering all manner of pretty gifts on Miss Blancher in honor of her wedding, which is scheduled for Sunday, June 5. Mr. Scott arrived in time to enjoy examining the gifts with his fiancée.

Those present were the Misses Lina Dunn, Blanche Fowler, Lucille Tuft, Josephine Fowler, Ethel Blancher, Helen Banks, Wilma Conklin, Esther Miller, Myrtle Mescham, Herma Smith, Dorothy Lutz, Eva Turton and Alice Scott, and Mrs. Jack Scott.

Mrs. Stanley Blancher recently arrived from the east to make her home in Santa Ana, and is with Mr. Blancher's mother, Mrs. Harvey Blancher, at 1009 Spurgeon street.

Darwin Scott is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Scott of 1127 West Fourth street, and is the branch manager of the Anaheim Creamery company. He and his bride will establish their home in this city, however. Although the two sons-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Blancher will have Scott for a surname, the two men Darwin Scott and Jack Scott are not related.

CHURCH SOCIETIES

Richland Avenue
Women of the Foreign Missionary society of the Richland Avenue Methodist church gave a benefit garden party Friday at the home of Mrs. W. E. Kellogg, 2412 Poinsettia street. Mrs. Ellen Sufferin of Orange, who has recently returned from Hainghwa, China, where she was a teacher in the high school, gave an interesting talk regarding conditions in that country. She stated that the students of the school and many other Chinese were saddened by the departure of their teachers and said that they would be glad to welcome them back at any time. Mrs. Sufferin further stated that she left her work in China because as a loyal American she felt it her duty to act upon the advice of the government of the United States to all its citizens in China to leave the country.

As the date of the party happened to be the birthday anniversary of Mrs. E. G. Warner, president of the society, the members presented her with a basket of beautiful flowers, and a birthday cake with lighted candles made its appearance at the hour of serving refreshments.

The society is supporting two Bible women in India, at an expense of $70 a year for the two, and the proceeds of the garden benefit, obtained by the entertainment of guests brought by the members, will be donated to this fund.

Presbyterian Aid
Mrs. J. W. Hersher's home at 211 South Birch street, was the scene of the latest meeting of the southeast section of the First Presbyterian Aid society, with 46 members present to enjoy the session.

Miss Ruth Andrews, secretary of the local branch of the National Music week committee (sponsored by the chamber of commerce) led the business meeting and told of plans for the week. Miss Danielle Rogers read and Miss Mary Ann Baxter played piano solos.

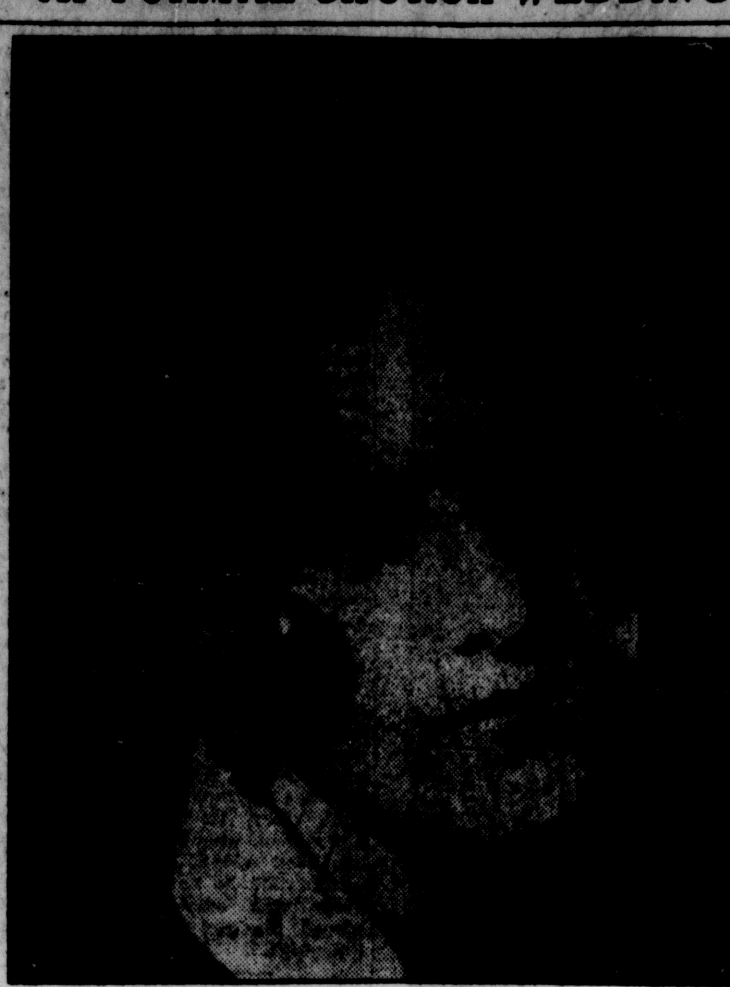

A number of games and contests were enjoyed and flowers were the prizes in each. Refreshments brought the pleasant afternoon to a close. Members of the hostess committee were Mesdames Lena Hewitt, Bowman, Ewert, Baxter, Church, Miss Lolita Palmer and Miss Robbie Jones.

Mothers' Club
The Mothers' club held its second meeting in the Congregational church bungalow last Friday afternoon, and effected organization by adopting a constitution and electing officers as follows: President, Mrs. Ivan W. MacFarlane; vice-president, Mrs. J. P. Wallace; secretary, Mrs. Howard P. Burdette. Meetings are to be held on the fourth Wednesday afternoon of each month, and all mothers are eligible for membership.

Following the business of organization, a program was enjoyed. Mrs. Lulu Johnson, accompanied by Miss Carrie Seaton, sang "Lullaby" by Gould and "Rainbows" by Edna R. Park; Mrs. Georgia Bradley, superintendent of the beginners' department of the Congregational church school, spoke on "Ways in which mothers can help to make the work of Teachers Effective;" and piano solos were given by Dorothy Proctor, who played "To Spring" by Green, and Mary Schrock, playing "Ave Marie" by Bergmuller. A demonstration of the social value of a cup of tea closed a pleasant session.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Spurgeon Memorial Missionary society will meet Wednesday morning at 9:45 o'clock in the church parlors for the monthly all-day session.

LOVELY YOUNG GIRL IS BRIDE
AT FORMAL CHURCH WEDDING

MISS DOROTHY HOLMES, POPULAR DAUGHTER OF MR. AND MRS. C. DUANE HOLMES, WHOSE WEDDING SATURDAY NIGHT TO FRANCIS SELWAY WAS ONE OF THE LOVELIEST EVENTS OF THE SUMMER.

Tall white gladioli nodded their snowy heads in the radiance of countless white waxen tapers, and made the Church of the Messiah, a white bower for a lovely girl-bride on Saturday evening, when Miss Dorothy Holmes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Duane Holmes, became the wife of Francis Selway, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Selway of South Birch street.

Friends assembled at the church for the 7 o'clock ceremony, heard two charming nuptial songs, "At Dawning" and "Deep in My Heart," by Miss Sara Hales, before the arresting strains of "Lohengrin's Wedding March" announced the entry of the bridal group.

A bevy of beautiful young girls, forming the bride's attendants, found their masculine counterparts in the many youths that served as ushers. Messrs. Minor Cox, Paul Wallace, Rollo Hays Jr., and Percie Page. Mr. Selway was assisted by his brother, Ralph Selway, as best man, and the two joined the rectory, the Rev. W. L. H. Benton, at the altar to await the approach of the bride and her attendants.

Charming Bridesmaids
The gowns worn by the bridesmaids, were of organza, all fashioned alike, and differing only in color. Miss Annie Tarver wore apricot, Miss Elizabeth Ott orchid, Miss Lucy Holmes corn color, and Miss Bertha Selway, pink. Each wore a horsehair braid hat to harmonize, trimmed with flaring tulle bow, and each carried a great cluster of sweet peas and breath of heaven, tied with long tulle bows the color of the individual frock it was to match.

Miss Emily Holmes was her sister's honor maid, and was charming in pale green and pink organza with picture hat to harmonize and with her arms filled with pink roses. Following her was an adorable little flower girl, Betty Jane Timmons, small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Timmons, demure in ruffled pink and green organza, and scattering flowers from a pretty basket.

Little Miss Betty Jane carried her gift of a mesh bag holding a dainty handkerchief made for her by the bride, and each bridesmaid also carried a charming handkerchief, made in harmony with her costume, also fashioned by Miss Holmes. Mr. Selway's gifts to his ushers, were silver cigarette cases.

Entry of Girl Bride
The youthful beauty of the bride drew all eyes like a magnet, as she paced down the aisle between the tall candles which marked each pew. Her gown was of ivory georgette and gleamed with iridescent sequins through the folds of her long tulle veil. The veil swept to the floor from a chaplet of orange blossoms and all but concealed the formal bridal bouquet of bride roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Holmes carried the "something old" required by every bride, in the handkerchief of rare old point lace, over fifty years old, and given her by her great-aunt, Mrs. E. G. Holmes who used to live in Santa Ana.

She entered the church on the arm of her father, C. Duane Holmes, and was given by him in marriage. At the close of the ceremony, as the bridal party left the church to the harmonies of Mendelssohn, and proceeded to the Holmes home at 1408 North Main street, all the guests at the church followed to extend their congratulations and good wishes.

The home was made a bower of bloom by the lavish use of quantities of varietal gladioli. Mr. Selway and his bride, with the members of their wedding party, formed in line to receive the greetings of the guests who were met at the door by Mr. and Mrs. Holmes and Mr. and Mrs. Selway. Mrs. Holmes wore a frock of coral and silver, while Mrs. Selway wore blue georgette.

Many Gifts
Guests were given the opportunity to inspect the array of handsome wedding gifts which were arranged in dining room and billiard room. In the study were shown the quantities of things showered on the bride at numerous pre-nuptial parties. Gift friends of the new Mrs. Selway aided in showing the beautiful articles, and also in serving ices and cake. All were in dainty gowns and added to the charm of the scene. They were the Misses Lovenia O'Toole, Alice Majors, Lucille Lowell, Murrel Knox, Melba Paterson, Evelyn Babbitt and Olive Goodman.

Late in the evening, Mr. Selway and his bride left for a northern motor trip which will take them as far as Corvallis, Ore., where they will visit campus scenes familiar to Mr. Selway who followed one year at Pomona college with two years at Oregon Agricultural college. Mrs. Selway traveled in a semi-sports frock of green crepe de chine with white cloak. Upon their return, they will occupy the J. A. Allison home at 408 South Broadway during Mrs. Allison's absence for the summer. Mr. Selway is with the Standard Oil company.

The engagement of the young couple, was announced just two months ago, and the interval since has been enlivened with a succession of luncheons, teas and other affairs given to compliment the bride-elect.

Santa Ana Women Enjoy Visit to Home of Mrs. J. R. Holman

A little group of Santa Ana friends of Mrs. J. R. Holman who used to live here, motored to her home in Pasadena late last week, and enjoyed an afternoon of bridge with her. The party of friends stopped en route in Whittier where they were luncheon guests of Mrs. Will Schanek, also a former Santa Ana, are continuing their way to Pasadena. Mrs. Holman's friendly greeting, and an interesting session of bridge. In the game, honors went to Mrs. Ray Wolven, first, Mrs. Charles Prior of Pasadena, second, and Mrs. Charles Eberole, low.

There are two delightful events to add variety to bridge, one the presentation of Mrs. Holman's new baby daughter, and the other, a group of songs by the hostess. It will be remembered that Mrs. Holman's very beautiful voice was heard many times during the time she and Mr. Holman made their home in this city. She sang among her friends called for, including Logan's "Pale Moon," "My Little Banjo" by Dyckman, and others.

At the tea hour, the card tables were arranged daintily with linens and flowers for serving salad, sandwiches and coffee, followed by individual strawberry shortcakes and salted nuts.

Motoring to Pasadena for the pleasant hospitality were Mesdames W. M. H. Adams, Howard Kornder, Charles Eberole, Clyde Dearthoff, Floyd Ingie, Ralph Heilman, MacKay, J. A. De Silva and Ray Wolven. In the home of their hostess they were joined by Mrs. Charles Prior and Mrs. Howard Hermans, both of Pasadena.

Dinner Party Honors
Young Traveler

Mrs. W. F. Feldner delightfully entertained late last week at a three course dinner in honor of her daughter, Miss Vera Feldner, who was to leave Saturday on an extended tour of the United States and Canada. Miss Feldner expects to be gone about five months. The dinner was charmingly served by Miss Velma McClure and Miss Helen Ruth Beck. Those present were Miss Vera Feldner, Conrad Houvers, Mr. and Mrs. K. R. Chandler, Miss Lydia Schleicher, L. G. Gromstad, Miss Katherine Christenson, Max Boethine and Mr. and Mrs. Feldner.

Their usual happy time together was enjoyed by Innomina club members Friday afternoon when Mrs. W. S. Chandler entertained in her friendly home, 705 South Syracuse street.

Honor Our Dead Memorial Day

WAR'S sorrowful memories grow dim-mer as the battles which bred them fade farther into the past.

But always on May 30th of each year we remember again with quickened pulse "the boys" who donned their country's uniform and marched away with Grant and Lee, Miles and Pershing.

On this day the soldiers of three generations parade in memory of their buddies who never returned home. Cheer the veterans. Honor their flag. Remember their comrades.

Let Us Bow
Our Heads in Reverence

FOOD EXPERT WILL CONDUCT CLASSES HERE

Miss Elsie Hinkley arrived in Santa Ana today. Miss Hinkley is the cooking expert and nutrition worker who will have charge of the classes in practical cooking which are to be held four days this week under the auspices of the Southern Counties Gas company in its assembly hall in the Santa Ana Gas office at 207 West
Second street.

She was found this morning in the midst of pots and pans which she was storing away for use this week in the white kitchen cabinet, placed together with a Tappan stove and white topped table, staged to display a model kitchen on the platform erected at one end of the lecture room.

"To my mind health and food are inseparable," Miss Hinkley said, "and we have planned our menus and day's programs keeping in mind that housewives need combinations of foods that will constitute balanced diets, which will give nourishment as well as wholesomeness and yet be economical. We try to include in our suggestions those kinds of foods which will be particularly best for children. Of course, we must cater to hubby's taste a bit and include an occasional pie, but in general the foods we suggest are those which will be the very best for the younger members of the family.

Tomorrow, the first day of the course, Miss Hinkley will help out the first of one of the hardest days of housekeeping by talking on "Baking Day Made Easy."
During the lesson a number of recipes will be given showing time-saving methods and interesting, economical combinations for every-day use.

RADIO BROADCAST PROBLEMS SOLVED

NEW YORK, May 30.—Successful experiment with a new radio broadcasting system which will allow 1900 stations to operate simultaneously has been announced by Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, owners of KDKA station at Pittsburgh.

The new system permits stations to broadcast with only one-half kilo-cycle separation between the waves, in contrast with the 50 kilocycles separation which the federal radio commission plans to enforce in New York and Chicago.

Engineers explain there are 950 kilocycles in the broadcast band between 200 and 545 meters. Under the new plan, it is said, approximately 1900 stations can operate in exclusive channels at one time without sharing waves or splitting time.

The Westinghouse company claims the device provides an answer to the air congestion problem which the radio commission is now attempting to solve.

The system is defined as "frequency modulation," as against the present method of "power modulation."

WHITTIER TILE CO., DOES BIG BUSINESS

WHITTIER, May 30.—Gold is where you find it, and so is clay.
To have acres of various clays in the midst of the enormous building activity of Southern California is the rare good fortune of the Whittier Tile Plant.

Starting just eight weeks ago the plant is now producing 75,000 tiles per month and employs 20 men.

The 13-acre plot and plant are located just north of the Dunkard
Church on Painter avenue extension, 11-2 miles south whittier. On this property is deposited five different kinds of clay, which were discovered by an Ohio roofing tile concern 12 years ago. Samples were shipped east for tests, and plans were completed for the erection of a big roofing tile plant here, when the World War ended the project.

The initial production of the plant consists of hand mission type roofing tiles which is sold under the trade name of "Bonita," Spanish for pretty. This tile is similar in character to that made by the early Padres, but much superior in quality. It is claimed that these clays blended produce the best variegated red roofing tiles in Southern California.

Girl Substitutes For Bridegroom In China Wedding

SHANGHAI, May 30.—When the bridegroom failed to appear at his wedding a girl friend volunteered to take his place and the wedding proceeded to every one's satisfaction. This incident took place at a farmhouse outside a small town in Yunnan province.

On his wedding morning the bridegroom walked into town to make a few last minute purchases
but at the east gate of the town
he was seized by a band of soldiers and impressed into service.
Meantime, the "ride arrived in her wedding chair at the home of her intended but did not find him there.

The wedding guests grew excited and finally abusive until an old scholar came forward and proposed that a school girl friend of the bride marry her by proxy. The parents agreed and the ceremony was performed.

Three weeks later the bridegroom returned home from the army and claimed his bride. He was more than grateful to the girl who had filled his shoes on his wedding day.

BIG BUSINESS DEAL CLOSED OVER TEA CUPS

LONDON, May 30.—It happened,
English fashion, over a cup of tea,
the latest scene is one of the greatest dramas of American business.

Papers were signed by which H.
Gordon Selfridge, American proprietor of London's largest department store, became the owner of William Whiteley and company, Limited, a century old British firm,
and his greatest rival.

A 50 million dollar group of department stores, a staff of 13,000 employees, a mile or more of shop windows in London and one of the four largest business organizations of its kind in the world, were brought into being by the recent merger.

All this is the achievement of a man who tried to retire from business 20 years ago, but who "loved business so that he could not leave it."

Having made one fortune in Chicago, he came to London at the age of 43, and in the face of criticism and opposition continued his career with even greater success.

A 10-year-old cash lad in the town of Jackson, Mich., began as a cash boy in a local dry goods store on the salary of $150 a week.

Now, 53 years later, that same cash boy lives in Lansdowne house, one of London's most palatial residences. His home is one of the brightest centers of London's social life. His sons-in-law include a Russian and two French viscounts. He owns a huge yacht, the Conqueror.
He has a stable of race horses.
He raises orchids. He collects rare books and engravings.

But for all that, he remains primarily a business man.

He comes each day to his office on the top floor of his great store in Oxford street, and from his great mahogany desk, on one corner of which is a British and on the other

Mussolini Diets to Guard Health

ROME, May 30.—Mussolini is in nearly perfect health. But to prevent any recurrence of his illness of two years ago he keeps on a strict diet. The major item of this diet is milk. Thus getting a proper supply of pure milk to the premier has become an important affair of state. Infinite precautions are taken. The cow is specially bred, guarded carefully and kept in a little garden near the Ponte Nomentana, a few miles from Mussolini's home on the Via Rasella. Two policemen are always in attendance.
The milk is sterilized at a special plant next door, bottles are filled and sealed and the seal on each bottle signed by an official in charge. The milk is transported to the Mussolini kitchen in a special automobile and again policemen are on guard. Aside from milk Mussolini confines his eating to eggs, fresh vegetables and fruit.

VALENCIA SHOW ATTENDANCE IS GREATEST EVER

Showing an increase of approximately 45 per cent in attendance over last year, the seventh annual California Valencia Orange show, closed at Anaheim Sunday night at 8:30 o'clock. An unofficial check of the attendance today showed that approximately 80,000 persons passed through the gates of the show.

Manager George Reid, of Anaheim, today announced that the show was a tribute to the co-operation of all Southern California and that he believed the affair would show a small profit this year. Thanks was extended to civic bodies throughout the county who have co-operated with the management in making the show a success and especially to the Orange county board of supervisors.

Yesterday, the closing day of the show, was designated as flood relief day, and one-half the proceeds were turned over to the Anaheim chapter of the American Red Cross to be used to assist in the Mississippi relief work.

Reid brought the show to a close last night in a fitting manner. He came upon the stage before hundreds of people with a tiny girl in night clothes, and sitting down before the microphone he told a bedtime story, in keeping with the story book about which the show has been woven. At the conclusion of the tale he announced that the show was officially closed, and placed the girl in a tiny bed on the stage.

Athletic Move By Europe Boon To World Peace

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 30.—
Before the war physical training was virtually unheard of in eastern Europe. Nowadays each country is vying with the other in training its soldiers and its youth.
Especially is this true in Rumania, where the army is being put through a long course of "physical works." Instructors have been brought from Sweden and a modern equipped gymnasium, together with a running track, has been set up in Bucharest.

Rumanian officers trained by the Swedes, in turn train the soldiers. In Turkey the government has introduced physical training into the normal and secondary schools to the great benefit of the pupils. Greece has been able to supply to her own instructors and some of her youths develop into magnificent long distance runners. A movement on foot to hold Balkan Olympic games is being supported in influential quarters. It seems to be realized that if the different states in eastern Europe can meet each other in a friendly spirit on the football and athletic fields there is less chance for them to enter into hostilities.

LIVING COSTS WILL BE HIGH IN GREAT BRITAIN

LONDON, May 30.—The ministry of labor has compiled statistics up to April 1 showing that the average level of prices of food, rent, clothing, light and miscellaneous was approximately 65 per cent above that of July, 1914, as compared with 71 per cent the previous month, and 68 per cent a year ago. The corresponding figures for food alone were 55, 62, 57, respectively.

It is pointed out in the ministry labor Gazette that the index for April 1 is the lowest since January, 1917; the since March 1 is mainly due to decreases, largely seasonal, in prices of eggs, milk and butter, and to reductions in the price of coal and gas from the abnormal high which resulted from the coal strike.

The Gazette states that while employment in a number of important industries remained very high in March, there was nevertheless, in industry generally, a pronounced improvement throughout the month. A satisfactory feature was the substantial decrease in the numbers of insured persons recorded as wholly unemployed.

The improvement in employment was principally in tailoring, hosiery and earthenware manufacture, general and marine engineering, shipbuilding, building public works contracting, the iron industry, and textile bleaching, etc. In the coal mining industry there was a reduction in numbers recorded as wholly unemployed, but this was more than offset by an increase in numbers temporarily stopped in the service of their employers.

Stock Swindling Made Difficult By English Law

LONDON, May 30.—"White collar bandits" and "dynamiters" or "share-pushers" as they are known in England, will find it difficult to do their work in Britain when the government passes its new act of parliament to frustrate their activities.

One of the chief clauses of the act is the prohibition of house to house offers of shares for subscription. It is almost made unlawful to invite, endeavor, or induce any member of the public to subscribe for or purchase shares by oral solicitation. In addition, no written offers of stock can be made by sharehawkers and canvassers unless vital information is provided.

The act is drawn so widely that fraud of this nature will be very difficult in future. The penalties also are very heavy. For a first offense a fine of $1000 is provided and for a subsequent offense a fine of $2500 and imprisonment for 12 months. The new measure is the direct result of a long continued and successful newspaper agitation.

New Books IN PUBLIC LIBRARY

The Log of the Sun
The very name of this new book by William Beebe, one of America's best known writers and scientists, is fascinating. It causes one to wonder why some clever and talented writer has never thought of writing a book like this before.

The book contains 52 short essays in which Beebe has presented familiar objects from unusual points of view. "Bird's-eye glances and insect's-eye glances" at the nature of our woods and fields has been the author's aim in writing this book.

Emphasis has been especially laid upon the weak points in our knowledge of things about us, and as we read we are inspired to enthusiasm and we, too, feel the call of God's out-of-doors, the call to gather up and follow to the end some of these threads of mystery connected with Nature.

This beautifully written volume is illustrated by Walter King Stone, who has followed the seasons as Beebe has in writing. These illustrations are works of art in their perfection and add greatly to the attractiveness of the book.

Mind and Personality
In this book William Brown of the University of Oxford, England, has obtained a synoptic view of personality, as considered from the standpoint of the various sciences, especially from those of psychology, psycho-pathology, and philosophy. It is in the nature of an interim report on the subject, since the material furnished by psycho-pathology continues to flow in an abundant stream, and the working of its philosophic implications is a work that cannot be hurried.

The results of prolonged study of relatively normal individuals have also been used to correct the balance and to serve as a standard by which the pathological may be more justly estimated. But enough is now known, according to the author, under both heads to justify provisional and tentative generalizations.

Polonaise
In this lovely story of Chopin, written by Guy De Pourtales, one finds a continuous mention of the parallel between his life and that of Franz Liszt. Instead of detracting from the story of Chopin this only serves to heighten the interest in the volumes.

The author writes concerning the book: "The Life of Liszt is an open book. He wrote it everywhere in ink and in adventure. Of the life of Chopin almost nothing remains. His nature protected him from needless exposure, and fate furthermore decreed that a great many of his letters and relics should be burned in a house in which his sister lived in Warsaw in 1883. We can discover him therefore only in his music, in a few scraps of correspondence, and in the memories of his friends."

Meanwhile, his life was always so simple and so logical that a slight commentary is necessary to understand it.

"Badly served in love, in friendship, in everything that demanded blindness or excessive pedal, this clear-sighted sufferer saw himself in only one mirror: the ebony of his piano."

This is a book which is worth while. It is alive in that it presents a true picture of Chopin, telling of his sorrows, his joys, in such a manner that the reader can not fail to be interested.

Henry Ford
This simple, well written biography of Henry Ford, one of America's foremost financial geniuses, will be welcomed by the reading public which has long desired such a story of the life of this well-known man.

The author, J. G. de Rouillac Hamilton, has told the story of Mr. Ford's life in the simple, natural, and human manner which so natural and human a subject deserves. The book is sure to become very popular.

On the Other Side of the Door
The sermons appearing in this volume are written by William Carter D. D., pastor of the Throop Avenue Presbyterian church, Brooklyn, N. Y. They manifest the preacher's qualities, his methods of thought and speech, his solicitude for the spiritual betterment of his fellow-men.

The sidelights cast upon Biblical history and its characters, or upon the diversified scenes of man's religious development add to the stimulus and profit of this series of discourses.

SAILING FLEET IS BOUND FOR ENGLISH PORT

LONDON, May 30.—Somewhere in the South Atlantic ocean, or possibly lying in a calm of the Indian ocean is a fleet of 13 home-bound sailing vessels. These 13 comprise virtually all that is left of the one-time great fleet of sailing vessels that plied the seven seas.

Loaded with Australian grain, the 13 vessels began their voyage to England in such close succession that their trips will revive the once famous port-to-port races when the sailing ship was in its hey day and captains laid waters before leaving port that their vessels would be the first to reach their destinations.

Out of the whole 13 only one ship flies the British flag, although 11 of the vessels were built in Great Britain. Of the 12 under flags, one is Italian owned, while most of the others are of Baltic state register, for most of the great English sailing vessels were exiled to the Baltic when the vast fleets began to break up under the strain of competition with the modern steam freighters and liners.

One after another, their voyages completed, sailing vessels flying the British flag have either been sent to the scrapyard or condemned to be sold to the highest bidder for trade countries where competition with steamships is not so strong.

Now there are but few sailing vessels on the longer trips and the present voyage of those from Australia is understood to include the largest number which have plied this route at one time for a number of years. Their long passage this time, they owe to a chance dispute between the grain growers in Australia and the shipping companies.

But business for vessels can not be carried on for long depending upon a chance dispute between shippers and carriers, so the present trip may be the swan song for more than one of these vessels which played its small part in making the most glorious era in history, the era of the sail.

Coast's Lumber Cut Is Larger

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 30.—Although the country as a whole showed less lumber cut last year than in 1925 the three west coast states showed an increase in lumber production. The decrease for the entire country amounted to 400,000,000 feet, or 1.9 per cent.

On the other hand, Washington and Oregon gained 400,000,000 feet in production or 5.9 per cent, and California gained nearly 100,000,000 feet or 6.4 per cent.

The tabulation of lumber cut was prepared by the departments of commerce and agriculture working jointly, and it includes the cut from 23 large mills, every mill sawing at least 5,000,000 feet during the year. The cut from the smaller mills is not considered, although it is estimated the mills with a capacity smaller than 5,000,000 feet annually cut about 44 per cent of the total lumber produced in the United States last year.

The 23 large mills produced 21,194,000,000 feet of lumber last year, compared to 21,600,000,000 feet in 1925.

Most of that decrease was reported from the northeastern states.

NEW AVIATION CONQUESTS ARE GERMANY PLAN

BERLIN, May 30.—With the advent of spring in Central Europe and the consequent improvement of atmospheric conditions, Germany is preparing to continue her peaceful conquest of the air. If the progress made during recent years is maintained this season, Germany bids fair to outdo all nations in commercial aviation.

When last fall most of the large and small planes of the Luft Hansa, the subsidized aviation company holding a monopoly for all air traffic, were wheeled into their hangars, they had covered close to 5,000,000 kilometers on 64 lines. During the winter only 10 of those lines were flown, bringing the year's kilometer-total up to 6,100,000.

Within one year 55,248 passengers and approximately 800,000 pounds of baggage, freight, and mail were carried through the air. There were but few mishaps and only one fatal accident. The mileage covered represented an average 65 percent increase over the previous year.

All the major European capitals, London, Paris, Vienna, Moscow and Stockholm were included both by the passenger and the freight planes 89 per cent of which left and departed according to schedule. In addition, a special health resort service was organized for the holiday season, bookings for which were sometimes so frequent that all the reserve airplanes had to be mobilized to cope with the traffic.

These activities, it is anticipated, will be multiplied this year. At its close the directors of the Luft Hansa hope to be able to record a 100 per cent increase of the passenger and freight traffic and a substantial addition to the existing lines. Preparations for these extensions are in full swing and include, among other things, the large-scale training of pilots.

Most of the present pilots have seen war service and, if they have not all been aces, they have at least all seen the cockpit of a battle plane. But the supply of pilots is now running low, compelling the Luft Hansa to comb over the younger generation for suitable candidates.

LADY HENRY GIVES COLLEGES MILLION

LONDON, May 30.—A large sum—stated to be one-quarter of a million pounds, about one and one-quarter million dollars—is understood by the Daily Sketch to have been bequeathed for the establishment of scholarships at Yale and Harvard and Oxford and Cambridge, by Lady Henry, widow of Sir Charles Solomon Henry.

Lady Henry, the eldest daughter of the late Leonard Lewisohn, copper magnate, was born in New York city, but had made her home in England since her marriage to Sir Charles in 1892. She was always deeply interested in promoting good understanding between the people of the United States and Great Britain, and her bequest was made in furtherance of this ideal.

It provides for facilities in the American universities for British students, and for facilities at Oxford and Cambridge for American students.

Lady Henry, who died in London last week, had long been prominent in society and politics and gave much of her time to charitable movements.

The "college" is really a school in three sections—grammar school, beginning with the fifth grade, high school and three years of college work.

TO ENCOURAGE FORENSICS IN LOCAL SCHOOLS

A policy intended to encourage interest in forensics at the Santa Ana high school and college is to be promoted next year by means of offering cups and prizes to the winning interclass debating teams and the champion school orators according to plans being outlined by Cecil C. Stewart, public speaking coach.

The forensic activities of the year have ended with Santa Ana holding the brightest record of years for its forensic accomplishments.

The prospects for next year is promising, especially for the Santa Ana college. Paul Seitzer, Edwin Gerhardt and Wallace Grebe, outstanding student platform orators of the local high school, are intending to enroll James Walker, Clarence Trickey, Lon McIntire and Dean Cowdry, members of this year's debating teams will probably be back.

Stewart said that he expected several Santa Ana civic organizations to put up the cups and prizes for the forensic series.

Cups that may be offered will be for the winning class in the interclass series for both high school and the junior college. The oratorical prizes will be awarded the students who win the school tryouts when the representatives of Santa Ana are chosen.

HISTORY BOOKS ON WORLD WAR WRONG

PHILADELPHIA, May 30.—Thousands of the children in our public schools today are being given an inaccurate and false account of American participation in the greatest conflict the world has ever known, the World War," declares Lt. Col. Thomas J. Dickson, chairman general of the Military Order of Foreign Wars.

Dickson, who was ranking captain with the A. E. F., points out a number of "abundant inaccuracies" in history textbooks used in a number of the public schools throughout the nation.

Chaplain Dickson, who has examined more than 100 present day school histories, says they are brimful of errors in comparison with official military records.

Chaplain Dickson is carrying his campaign for truthful accounts of the World War throughout the country. He testified before the house military affairs committee at the recent session of congress as to the inaccuracies of our present day histories.

The casts will include the most notable actors and actresses of Germany, headed by Gustav Hartnag.

1000 AUTO OWNERS GET NOTICES TO PAY COUNTY

County Assessor Sleeper Starts Task of Mailing out Bills to Drivers

PERSONAL PROPERTY INCLUDED IN TAX

Amount Reported Payable on Receipts of Letter; Collection Gain Seen

Only 15,000 owners of automobiles in Orange county are just receiving notices from County Assessor James Sleeper that personal property taxes upon their cars are due and payable. More than 2000 such notices already left the assessor's office while about 12,000 more will be sent out within the next few days, it was announced today by Deputy Assessor Maurice Enderle.

The tax, however, covers more than automobiles. It includes all personal property. The collections of this form of property are by the assessor, where the owner does not own real estate, to payment of the personal property tax. In the cases of real owners, the personal property tax is included with their real estate bills and is collected by the tax collector.

City Garbage Is Valuable, Makes Lots of Grease

NEW YORK, May 30.—You never thought potato peelings, coffee grounds and meat skins were good for anything but the garbage man, did you?

Along comes Harrison E. Howe, editor of an industrial magazine and says that "American city garbage is a valuable raw material."

He told the American Chemical society so in a report on the progress of garbage reduction.

The garbage reduction plant in Indianapolis, operated by the city, he said, in 1926, made a net revenue of $29,000 on 32,000 tons of garbage. Fertilizer and greases were made from the table refuse.

3 IRRIGATION MEETINGS FOR ORANGE COUNTY

A number of demonstrations on irrigation will be given tomorrow and Wednesday in various sections of the county under the direction of the Orange County Farm bureau. It was announced today by W. M. Cory, assistant farm advisor. Cory will be in charge of the demonstrations.

The meeting and field demonstration will show ranchers the methods of water measurement and will also reveal the method of determining the efficiency of a pumping plant.

J. P. Brown, irrigation expert from the University of California, will speak at the field meetings.

The first demonstration is to be held at the Allen brothers' ranch, one-half mile north of Garden Grove on the Garden Grove boulevard. It will be held at 10 a. m., May 31.

Girl Will Enter High School At 9 Years of Age

TILDEN, Neb., May 30.—Vergie Lee James, 8-year-old pupil of a country school near here, expects to enter high school when she is nine.

Vergie recently passed the state examination given for seventh and eighth grade pupils with an average grade of 86 per cent. Her teacher expects her to complete the nine subjects required for the eighth grade next year, and be ready for high school at 9 years of age.

CONTEST VICTOR

Beatrice C. Granas, 10, of this city, who was winner in Eisteddfod contests in Los Angeles.

SISTERS ARE GIVEN PRIZES AT L. A. MEET

Beatrice C. Granas, the 10-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Granas, 2404 Santiago street, and her sister, Audrey B. 8, both winners in the final competitions staged this month by the California Eisteddfod association, were awarded prizes at the formal presentation exercises held Friday evening at the Gamut club, 1014 South Hope street, Los Angeles.

Special honors were paid Beatrice by the judges, who awarded her two gold medals, she having won first place in two contests, one in piano and the other in interpretive reading. Her sister, Audrey, was given a bronze medal, having won third place in violin of her class. Helen Tannenbaum, another Santa Ana girl, was given honorable mention, having passed the required 85 per cent score on the finals.

The contest, forming a part of a series of final competitions, was participated in by the first place winners of their respective age classes in the various district Eisteddfods, held during the months of March and April. Among the districts represented in the finals were the city of Glendale, the Los Angeles harbor district, Kern county, city of Long Beach, city of Los Angeles, Orange county, Pomona valley, San Geronimo district and Ventura county.

In awarding the prizes, special mention was made of Orange county, which, though being represented for the first time in the California Eisteddfod contests, had carried off an unusually large number of prizes, which fact, it was stated, reflects favorably on the high standard of culture maintained in the county.

Beatrice Granas is a pupil of J. Earl Fraser, well known Santa Ana music teacher. Her work on the piano has attracted much favorable comment in local music circles. She has also won honors in the field of recitals and interpretative readings.

4TH DISTRICT PREPARES FOR P.-T. A. CONFAB

Orange County Expected to Be Well Represented at Los Angeles Gathering

Parent-Teacher district officers, city federation officials and presidents of local associations were busy today completing arrangements for attending the state convention of the California Congress of Parents and Teachers to open next Tuesday in Los Angeles. According to reports received by Mrs. F. L. Benson, corresponding secretary of the fourth district organization, Orange county will be one of the best represented counties at the state meet.

The outstanding event of the opening day will be a gala banquet at the Ambassador hotel, to which a number of distinguished citizens have been invited as special guests. Listed among the speakers are Governor C. C. Young, Dr. Robert Millikan, famous scientist and Nobel prize winner; Mayor George Cryer, of Los Angeles; Dr. Rufus von Klein Smid, president of the University of Southern California; Dr. E. C. Moore, president of the University of California, at Los Angeles; William John Cooper, state superintendent of public instruction; Mrs. Susan Dorsey, city superintendent of Los Angeles city schools; P. G. McGarry, president of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, and Robert Odell, president of Los Angeles board of education.

Mrs. F. O. McCulloch, state president, will preside over the affair, which is given in honor of Mrs. A. H. Reeve, national president, and Mrs. G. A. Reilly, first national president and out-of-state P.-T. A. members.

Because of the large number of out-of-state visitor-delegates to the national convention held this week in Oakland, who are planning to attend the banquet at the Ambassador hotel, elaborate arrangements have been made to make it a typical California affair. For the past three weeks, it was learned, decorators have been working in the grand ballroom of the famous hostelry, transforming it into a typical Southern California garden. Spanish music by a group of selected musicians in Spanish costumes; Spanish songs by Los Angeles artists, and Spanish dances by members of the Mission page are among the entertainment features of the big event. In addition to these things Spanish, the pages and ushers will be dressed in the colors of Aragon and Castile.

Following is a partial list of Orange county members who will attend the convention as delegates of their respective associations:

El Modena, Mrs. A. Perkins, Mrs. D. Smiley and Mrs. P. J. Coburn.

Laguna Beach, Mrs. Joel Handy and Mrs. A. B. Marshall.

Brea, Mrs. Isaac Craig and Mrs. A. B. Yost.

Anaheim Broadway, Mrs. B. W.

SOLDIERS IN GRAY REST IN NORTH

Bodies of more than 200 officers in the Confederate army lie buried in a cemetery on Johnson's Island, which lies in Lake Erie a few miles off Sandusky, O. These men died in the prison which the Union army maintained on the island during the Civil war, and congress appropriates money annually for the maintenance of the cemetery. Sandusky G. A. R. veterans and members of the Daughters of the Confederacy in Ohio decorate these graves every Decoration day.

NAZARINES OF S. A. WARNED OF CHURCH FRAUD

Members of the Nazarine church today were warned to be on the lookout for a man posing as a church member who tells a story of losing his pocketbook and then borrows $5 or $10 to aid him "until he can get in touch with members of his family, who are moving to Santa Ana."

The warning comes from Mr. and Mrs. E. Codling, 622 North Van Ness avenue, members of the local church, who were defrauded of $10, they said.

The man gave his name as Robert Thompson when talking with the Codlings. He was said. He knows all of the Nazarine pastors in this section of the country and can even tell where they are located, it is said.

PARIS DOG BARBER MAKES BIG FORTUNE

PARIS, May 30.—A dog's barber who bathes, curls, manicures and massages only the darlings of the rich has made a fortune out of his specialty.

He is Monsieur M. Hector, who worked into his trade from that of a tax collector. He was a "barker" for the tax collector. He was a barker who actually barked. He had the faculty of imitating his four-footed friends' voices and capitalized it. Ordinary barbering on man hadn't brought him great success so a friend showed him the way to easy money.

Hector entered luxurious apartment houses, barked outside doors and as dogs inside always responded and he was able to list the apartments where there were dogs. He checked this list with the tax collector and received 30 per cent of the fines imposed on those who hadn't paid their dog tax, one that many dodge.

This business paid well, but he found that barbering dogs paid better. He took his case of tools, therefore, and called on all the dog owners he had listed and soon had a large practice as a high-priced dog barber.

Mirror Is Used To Read Writing Of British Child

LONDON, May 30.—London hospitals get strange cases from time to time, and it is not unusual for great consulting specialists to visit obscure patients with rare complaints.

A curious case is that of a child who writes only backward. He is six years old, is apparently intelligent and in most ways appears perfectly normal, but his writing runs from right to left. It has been impossible to teach him to write any other way. What he writes must be read with a mirror. Eminent physicians and psychiatrists have puzzled over the boy's condition—in which certain motor centers in the brain have been transferred from left to right.

Porter Resigns After 38 Years On Yale Faculty

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 30.—After 38 years as a member of the Yale faculty, the Rev. Frank Chamberlain Porter, D. D., Winkley professor of Biblical theology in the Yale divinity school, has retired. His name has been placed by the university upon the roll of emeritus professors.

Professor Porter is an editor of the "Journal of Biblical Literature." In 1924, after 35 years on the Yale faculty, Professor Porter took his first leave of absence from the university and with Mrs. Porter spent a year in Europe and Asia.

BIG DRAINAGE DITCH FOR SANTA ANA 2 YEARS AWAY, CITY ENGINEER BELIEVES

Although negotiations have been started between the city of Santa Ana and James Irvine concerning a right-of-way for a drainage ditch, which would permanently relieve Santa Ana of its ever increasing storm waters, plans for such a move may be two years away, in the opinion of Clyde Jenken, city engineer.

Jenken has held several conferences with Irvine engineers concerning right-of-way across the Irvine ranch from the south end of Santa Ana to Newport bay, where water could be drained. None of these conferences, however, have developed into anything definite, he said.

Location Suggested

Irvine has suggested a point where the ditch could be dug and this is under consideration by Jenken at the present time. Jenken said he did not know whether the suggestion would be approved by the council as to location. The line from the city across the Irvine property to the bay, as suggested, is approximately three and one-half miles.

One of the chief points raised in planning for such a system is whether the ditch is to be an open affair or underground. The city wants to dig an open ditch, from an economy standpoint, and it is understood, Jenken said, that this would receive the approval of the Irvine company.

At the present time, Santa Ana is making no effort to drain off its storm waters, with the result that the water is flowing into the Delphi drainage district's ditches at the south end of the city.

Ditch Overtaxed

This has proved satisfactory to the directors of the Delphi drainage district for the past several years, but this year, with an unusually large rainfall, together with a larger average amount of storm waters from Santa Ana, the drainage district's ditches have been overtaxed, causing some damage, it was said.

Jenken said today that plans now under advisement would relieve the Delphi drainage district of the burden, and that if the plans were carried out, the city would act independently on the project without the right-of-way across the Irvine property, which will be asked free of charge.

Irvine Plans Dam

Irvine, it is understood, is expected to build at 35-foot dam in Newport bay for the purpose of impounding the rain water, in case the city drains through his land to the bay. He will then, it was said, pump the water to his more fertile lands to the east.

Stanley C. Good, head of the street department, and Jenken both declared that neither would be in favor of such a system unless it was a permanent one and one that would take care of the city's storm waters for at least 25 years in the future. To build a drainage system, with many laterals for a lesser period of years, would be a waste of money, in their opinion.

Waters Increase

In connection with this, Jenken pointed out the fact that the city's storm waters increase greatly every year, with the number of buildings erected each year, to such a point that it doubles every four and a half years. He said that 90 per cent of the rain water that fell in the business district drained off because of the roofs and hard surfaced streets, and that in the residential districts, some 45 per cent drained off. As the business district and the residential districts are built up the percentage of water that drains away will be larger and larger.

Large Ditch Needed

Estimating that the storm waters are doubled here every four and a half years, Jenken said that the drainage system that would have to be built would have to be approximately five times larger than is actually needed at the present time.

Jenken and Good both were of the opinion that the cost of such a project would have to be borne by the city of Santa Ana. Neither would say what the approximate cost would be.

Because of the immensity of the project, and because of pressing street work at this time, Jenken said it would be at least a year before definite plans could be reached and that another year would be needed before the system could be installed.

GERALD TWIST TO BE COLLEGE STUDENT HEAD

A landslide for Gerald (Pete) Twist, football and track star, formerly of the Santa Ana high school, seems impending in the election of president of the student body at the Santa Ana college when the vote is taken on the executive board officers this week.

Up until today, the petition for Twist was the only one that had been taken out for president.

The nominations are to be made at the regular assembly of the student body next Wednesday afternoon. Rumors are current about the campus that friends of Lon McIntire, now vice president of the student body, are going to back him in the race against Twist. His petition, however, had not been taken out today.

For the other offices, rival candidates will seek the popular support except for treasurer, Ralph Steuart is the only nominee for the treasurer. Melvin Harter and James Walker will oppose each other for the vice presidency, and Miss Mary Jane Owens and Miss Helen Drake will be rivals for the secretaryship.

The student body commissioners are not elected but they will be appointed by the new executive board following elections.

The officers chosen at this time will take over their duties next fall at the opening of the September term. James Smith, present president of the student body, will retire at the end of the school year in June, turning over the gavel of power to his successor.

CROWN JEWELS ARE SHOWN FIRST TIME

BERLIN, May 30.—Hohenzollern crown jewels, valued at $5,000,000 and dating back to Frederick the Great, are on public view for the first time in history in 200-year-old Monbijou castle.

Amazement at the gorgeousness of the collection is expressed even by intimate friends of the court, as it was believed that the treasures of Prussian kings were not nearly so vast.

The 42 salons of the castle, the favorite residence of Frederick the Great's mother, contain the priceless Hohenzollern seals, scepters, the royal saber studded with huge diamonds, valuable snuff boxes of the Great Elector and jewels of Queen Louise. Several rooms contain some of the finest specimens of old porcelain, some of which are more than three centuries old.

The castle had not been used as a royal residence for 60 years when it was opened as the Hohenzollern museum. It was closed in 1918, but since the indemnification settlement with the former Kaiser last fall, the crown jewels, which became the property of the state of Prussia, have been collected and are on exhibition there.

ONE GIRL CHOOSES MARRIAGE "CAREER"

Teaching Popular Among Co-eds While Boys Lean Towards Engineering

Out of the class of 200 graduates at the Santa Ana polytechnic high school, but one girl admitted that her "career" was marriage, according to the results of a survey, held among the seniors in order to determine what colleges they intended to enter and what occupations they expect to follow.

Six out of the class selected the most inducement to the girls. Twenty-two girls said that they were studying in order to teach all manner of subjects from dancing to mathematics.

Among the class there were but four boys who have decided upon teaching as their life work. Engineering was the most popular of the boys' selections. In the professions, six desire to become doctors, six lawyers and one a minister. Two are interested in scientific endeavor. Ten students are interested in business, from banking to advertising.

Stenographic work was elected by 14 girls as their preference. Next in popularity was nursing with 10.

Six out of the class selected journalism.

Among some of the others listed were agriculture 6, civil service 2, coaching 6, costumeing 1, music and art 6.

Colleges in widely separated sections of the country, 23 institutions in all, will be entered by the graduating seniors. Santa Ana college will receive the largest number with a total of 60. Others are University of Southern California 13, University of California in Los Angeles 10, University of California at Berkeley 8, Pomona 6 and Stanford 4.

Students intending to enroll in the Santa Ana college next fall are Alfred Hattie, James Snow, Catherine Lacy, Clark Brown, Mearl Ouel, Prudence Drews, Geneva Hartung, Lawrence Haupt, Ruth Bradley, Ruth Juhlin.

Thar She Blows!

When a fellow's in the whaling business and whales are scarce, think of the thrill you'd get when the lookout sights one of the big fish made famous by Jonah and hollers out "Thar she blows!"

On the other hand, when you are in the "motoring business" and spinning along down the highway, and all at once—"thar she blows" Bang? Brakes—flat tire—Jack—lug wrench—sweat!

Right at this particular moment Old Man "I-Told-You-So" walks up and remarks that you should have had that particular cut or stone bruise, or whatever it was, repaired before you took any chances with the tire. That's true, but it's too late—too late!

Just change the tire the best way you can and cuss quietly to yourself.

Then—

Then bring that tire in to Repair Headquarters. If it can be saved and put back into useful service, we'll do it—and we'll do it right!

It won't cost you a penny, either, to find out if you have another "weak sister" on your rims that's just waiting to get you way out somewhere and blow up on you.

From a little patch to a complete retread, regular tires or balloons, it's all the same to our factory trained repair men and to our advance type of repair equipment.

Moral: We do tire repairing.

Feet of Women Getting Larger

NEW YORK, May 30.—Women's feet are getting larger. For generations the average size of the foot of the American woman has been 4B. But the modern girl has outgrown this standard, say figures published by the Woman's Home Companion, and the average size at present is nearly half an inch longer and a full size wider than that of a brief decade ago.

Money Saved By Water Softeners

LONDON, May 30.—Large savings in numerous industries are announced in the report of "co-operative industrial research" by associations of manufacturers.

The British government started this movement in 1918 by giving 1,000,000 pounds for research and investigation. In the preface to the report, Lord Balfour, president of the department, says though the policy has had its successes and its failures, yet the successes have greatly predominated.

The Launderies' Research association, to take one instance, turned its attention to the use of softened water. As a result, 50 laundries immediately installed water-softening plants. The average saving to the firms is reckoned at $20,000 yearly and it is estimated that British customers are saving $500,000 yearly, while life of linen is increased by quite 25 per cent.

German Traffic Signals Bother

BERLIN, May 30.—Construction of traffic towers has been undertaken in so many German cities that the ministry of interior has sent out a warning that under a certain point of traffic density towers are a hindrance.

"There can be no objections to the construction of traffic towers to satisfy the curiosity of the populace," the order continues, "but it would be wiser not to waste electric current or the effort of a police officer until there is actually enough traffic to be regulated."

There are a number of cities of 300,000 population and less which use the light signal system of regulating traffic at busy street intersections.

AT THE THEATERS

Marion Davies and Matt Moore in a scene from "Tillie the Toiler," picture now showing at the West Coast-Walker theater.

WEST COAST-WALKER

One of the largest dancing carnivals Santa Ana has ever seen is offered in Fanchon and Marco's Dancing Master "Idea," at the West Coast-Walker theater, featuring Ivon Bankoff and Beth Cannon, noted international dancing stars.

This team of terpsichorean artists have just completed a tour of the world, learning the dances of every country. They have literally danced their way around the globe, appearing in Hawaii, the Philippines, Japan, China, Java, India, Egypt, England, France, Italy, Germany and Switzerland.

Bankoff and Cannon are established favorites in the United States having toured the country as a headline act on big time vaudeville. Bankoff, himself, a graduate from the famous Imperial Russian ballet of Moscow, who has been featured member of "The Greenwich Village Follies," and many other well-known Broadway musical shows.

Other artists on the same bill are Barnett and Clark, Gladys James, Jack Lurant and Frank and Jane Mitchell.

Skirts that end just below the knees, or even higher, earrings which drop almost to the shoulders, hats which entirely cover the left eye, elaborate and novel treatments—these are but some of the fads that Marion Davies sponsors in "Tillie the Toiler," her latest production, now playing at the West Coast-Walker theater.

This is the first time for more than two years that this particular star has worn smart and up-to-date clothing in her pictures. As the dumb-bell stenographer she has fifteen changes of costume.

TEMPLE THEATER

Hereafter motion pictures only will be shown at the Temple theater, J. A. Menard, lessee and manager announced today. A low price has been set and a matinee performance will be given each day.

Children, if accompanied by parents, will be admitted free. Only the biggest and best pictures will be shown, according to the manager, beginning with "Robin Hood," starring Douglas Fairbanks, which will hold the boards the rest of the week.

Douglas Fairbanks, the star and producer of this romantic photoplay, made some wide departures from traditions in selecting his supporting cast for this most ambitious film of his brilliant career, and, consequently, there are many anomalies in the personnel of the delineators of the various roles.

Wallace Beery, creator of sneering braggarts and vicious men in general, has the heroic role of King Richard Coeur de Lion in this super-production. He has become the defender of right, the same right that he has been trampling on so ruthlessly in his customary villainous screen characterization.

New Leaders for English Politics Are Prophesied

LONDON, May 30.—Early changes in the leadership of all political parties in England is predicted by parliamentary experts.

The recent ill health of Premier Baldwin has brought about some speculation regarding the future head of the Tory party. It is generally believed the choice of a new leader would be limited to Churchill, Lord Birkenhead and Home Secretary Sir William Johnson-Hicks.

The illness of Ramsay MacDonald, former labor premier, on his visit to the United States, has also revived talk of the retirement from the direction of the affairs of the Labor party. J. R. Clynes and John Wheatley are being talked about as possible successors.

London Beggars Now Total 1000

LONDON, May 30.—There are not more than a thousand habitual beggars in the streets of London, according to an estimate made by the London Mendicancy society. This figure compares favorably with 10,000 who begged in the streets a hundred years ago.

The society's estimate is based on the number of police court charges, the assumption being that owing to the greater strictness and vigilance of the police, most habitual beggars make their appearance in court at least once in 12 months.

YOST BROADWAY THEATER

Dynamic Clara Bow has hit the bell again—hit it with a force that kept last night's audience at the Yost Broadway theater entranced, thrilled and laughing from start to finish in her newest picture, "House Rosie."

"House Rosie" is one of those all too infrequent photoplays that set out to be nothing more or less than one hundred per cent entertainment and accomplish their purpose.

This Saturday Evening Post story by Nunnally Johnson opens with a beach carnival, proceeds to a gay cabaret with Clara leading her "Six Roughnecks" in a novel little dance, moves to a fashionable country club and a gay party of the upper social set and closes with a round fight, as Clara at the ringside urges her big boy friend, Joe Hennessy, on to victory and the middleweight championship.

Reed Howes, Arthur Housman, Doris Hill, John Miljan, Douglas Gilmore and Henry Kolker head the supporting cast and are ideally placed in their roles.

YOST THEATER

A picture of unusual interest, "Husband Hunters" was shown here for the first time yesterday at the Yost theater. It is a highly entertaining photodrama and keeps the interest unflagging from the very inception to the finish. The settings are rich and elaborate and the photographic effects more than artistic.

"Husband Hunters" tells the story of a quartette of chorus girls who have forsaken gold digging for the more lucrative practice of meeting young millionaires and mapping out a life of ease and comfort once the social scene is landed in the matrimonial net. A young girl from the country comes to New York to make her name and fame on the stage and she becomes involved with her more sophisticated sisters of the stage in the game of husband hunting.

"Should the witness reply in the affirmative, he would incriminate himself under the Wright boneyard law and under the constitution, he cannot be compelled to incriminate himself," Judge Collins ruled.

Nevertheless, sellers of malt and other beer-making compounds continue to conduct extensive advertising campaigns here.

France Solves Labor Problem

PARIS, May 30.—French unemployment has been greatly relieved by sending out 25,000 foreign laborers during the last three months, when industry has been stagnant.

There are more than 1,000,000 immigrant laborers in France, but as they are principally in the mines and the arduous branches of the building trades, they are considered necessary. Labor authorities recognize that Frenchmen are reluctant to do the heavy, dirty work of "common labor."

The foreigners sent out of the country recently were one-third of the total listed for public relief. As only a dozen or so immigrant laborers are admitted weekly now and the exodus continues, the labor situation should improve.

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS IN "ROBIN HOOD"

"A marvelous entertainment for grown-ups. Aside from this, however, Douglas Fairbanks in Robin Hood" has the educational qualifications that make a truly great picture. I strongly recommend high school boys and girls to see Mr. Fairbanks' portrayal of Robin Hood for it visualizes the days of old far better than any text book."—Peter Brady, Chairman of Education, State Federation of Labor, New York State.

It is an enlightening visualization of a spirit of stirring times by gone in "years" which the great public in this ultra-modern age will understand, appreciate and enjoy.

THE ROMANCE OF AMERICA:

P. T. Barnum

Sketches by Bessey
Synopsis By Braucher

Barnum, who had humbugged thousands of the gullible, was himself fooled. One of the most trustful men, he invested in scores of wildcat enterprises that drained his resources. He was tremendously eager to make Bridgeport, Conn., an industrial center, and he put a fortune into a 224-acre model suburb with workers' homes.

In his zeal to develop East Bridgeport he gave ready ear and open purse to almost any schemer who came along.

He supplied thousands of dollars to a clock company on condition that it move to his suburb and gave notes for thousands more.

The clock company went into bankruptcy in 1855. Barnum, involved for more than $500,000, went with it. His failure was made a topic for pointing out the lesson of "ill-gotten gains." But he had friends, too. Offers of gifts and benefits, however, he refused. Day after day creditors dragged him to court.

AFTER HER HOME, A WOMAN'S CAREER COMES FIRST, CLAIM

"Life easily," says Mrs. E. S. H. McCauley. "Do one thing at a time."

By NEA Service

BRISBURG, Pa., May 30.—"One thing-at-a-time" is the motto of the successful life of E. S. H. McCauley, secretary of the Pennsylvania Department of Welfare, under Governor John Harbo.

Known for her success as a mother, housewife and member of the governor's cabinet, she says due to her having followed this she now gives women.

Natural Conflict between home-making and career, says this charming, gray-haired matron whose standing smile and steady all you she knows what it is.

It is natural for women to want a career. It is all right for them to have both. But to do a full-around job, women must live in its sequence—one thing at a time.

For your training, your college and some business experience before marriage, if you do it, she advises.

When you get married, concentrate on making that all-important step a success. When you are grown you have time to take a fling at business profession. While they are young, women's place is in the home.

Takes Own Medicine. McCauley is the kind of a woman who takes her own medicine. For her life story shows she is just what she advocates.

Had just graduated, 29 odd years ago, from the Rochester School for Nurses when she met Dr. McCauley. Like most she had been dreaming of being into a brilliant career. Field of medicine held romance promise of self-expression.

Chose Marriage. She chose marriage, and she chose it, gave up all thoughts of working at her profession outside the home. When her daughter graduated from Swarthmore this June, she married, she married on her. Her life for past 20 years has been to attain an ideal home and to try herself with the civic and national life of her town.

Not girls, if they were honest, would admit that when they are young they do not regret giving up careers," Mrs. McCauley says. "I think the average girl is her ability to swing both. But because it is the thing to do and because girls fear failure, runs if they stay at home. They start out in their difficult, double role and sometimes failures of both marriage and careers as a result.

course Mrs. McCauley sees reason why the home-maker mother should fall into ruts. "Don't. For 10 years she has time and talent to her community. She helped found and maintain a kindergarten in her town, Beaver, Pa., that proved out the Board of Education incorporated it.

served as school director for years and is now president of the Beaver Board. She has also served for years as trustee of the Slippery Rock Normal school, has been identified with the Pennsylvania League of Women Voters, was chairman of the Women's Republican committee campaigning for Governor Fisher in western Pennsylvania, and is active in the W. C. T. U.

She is also a member now of the executive committee of the Republican state committee. She is the only woman ever to be president of the Pennsylvania State School Director's association.

"Clubs, politics, educational movements all can give women the outside interests and intellectual stimulus they need while they are devoting most of their energies to their families," she asserts. "There is no excuse for a woman to grow dull nowadays. Both the woman and her family are benefitted by her outside associations."

Home Interest. The McCauley home in Beaver has not been broken up by Mrs. McCauley's duties in Harrisburg. When she and Ruth, the daughter, can slip away they run home to see Dr. McCauley who is so busy now with his practice that he wouldn't be able to spend much more time with them even if they were living there.

No Resentment. This present honor, she avers, is all the more enjoyable because in all her years at home she never felt resentment because she was kept from her career, never dreamed of the day when she would be free from family cares to pursue her life.

"Take life easily," she advises. "Do one thing at a time."

BEAUTY CHATS

SILK STOCKINGS

The girl who is really well dressed is the one who makes an art out of dressing, and who uses materials and colors to accentuate all her good points and conceal all her bad ones.

Take, for instance, only one article of dress—stockings. Here is the difference color and material make in the appearance of the legs and feet—a very important matter these days of short skirts.

Light colored stockings are splendid as a fashion; they not only are healthier for the feet than plain black or brown, but they give an opportunity to make a costume complete in color-harmony from head to foot, and they allow the wearer to conceal the fact that her legs are either too thin or too fat.

Here's how it is done. Never under any circumstances wear silk or chiffon stockings that have much pink in them, except with evening dresses or very light afternoon frocks that contain pinkish tones. There are thousands of tones of gray, beige, and brown to choose from. If your legs are too thin and undeveloped, wear chiffon weight if you can afford it, as it gives a more pronounced shadow round the outlines of the legs and makes them seem rounded. Don't wear too light a shade, or you will lose this effect of shadow and high light.

If your legs are too fat, wear heavier weight silk, you must not emphasize the contours in this case, you see. Wear light shades, or else quite dark ones. Dark colors make one seem slim and white stouter, but light beige or gray is all right as a choice.

H. C. F.—At 140 pounds, five feet, four inches in height and 17 years of age, you are about 20 pounds overweight. Reduce to normal and the double chin will vanish, but be sure to rub ice under the chin or use very cold water on it to help contract the pores while you are reducing.

Margaret C.—You can use hot crude oil for the scalp and it will be a good substitute for the mixture of oils the woman used on your scalp. You can purchase this oil in the shops that sell paints if you do not find it in the drugstores.

rested face her arrester. She wasn't fooling, either. For generations the average wife's job has been to have meals ready on the table when HE got home. And for generations wives have been so intimidated about "earning their keep" that they resist even the law, preferring to anger the court than a husband. And some husbands wonder why women want "to get out of the home."

RATS AND MONKEYS

The life story of Mary Lewis, opera star, proves again that greatness springs from poverty so awful as to be almost unbearable. Schumann-Heink's autobiography, now appearing in a woman's magazine, tells how the little Ernestine fed the zoo monkey in exchange for her own dinner, some of the monkey food. Mary Lewis tells of herself "bound" out when almost a baby, put to sleep in a dark basement where rats crawled over her crib.

THOSE FINE DRESSES

A woman needs only five dresses—2 sports dresses, one afternoon dress, 2 evening dresses—in order to be well-dressed, even beautifully-dressed. This from Elsie De Wolfe, famous society woman and decorator. Miss De Wolfe neglects to say just what the total cost of the five dresses should be, but after surveying her illustrations any woman instinctively knows that $500 would not cover the lot. It is no news to women to learn that with $500 they will be beautifully-clad. What most of us want to know is how to get it!

ALIMONY JOKE!

Alimony does have a little way of accruing, if not paid. Comes one Mrs. Lena Lapidus of Detroit, asking $15,000 back alimony from her late spouse, Morris Lapidus. In June, 1924, the lady says, the court ordered Morris to pay her $4 a week alimony. Morris did not. I have not done my "rhythmic home work, but Lena says the total amounts to $15,000. What I wonder is just wherein consists this "majesty of the courts" of which we hear when men are permitted to accrue $15,000 worth of unpaid alimony? I know a woman who locks her four-year-old twins in the house each day, goes out to work to support them, and is about dead from overwork and worry, all because the brutal husband who was told by the court to pay her $35 a week alimony, has never paid one penny, has remarried, is supporting children not his own, and gets away with it. Alimony paying is a JOKE!

HUSBY'S SUPPER

"What will my husband do if he comes home and finds no supper?" Thus did a lady about to be arrested.

THE WOMAN'S DAY

by ALLENE SUMNER

After they were married and the wedding cake had been eaten down to the last crumb, Mrs. B. P. Bronson, told the bridegroom, B. P. Bronson, that he had 11 children. He had not known it before. B. P. complained and got a divorce. It means, of course, that B. P. did not literally take her "for better or worse," and it means that he was napping when he got fooled. But the very trickery means, also, that he is probably as well off without as with the late Mrs. B. P. Bronson.

FATHER BUYS BREAD

Father is still the breadwinner. Put that in your pipe and smoke it, you feminists, pro and anti, who contend that the sex roles are being reversed and that woman is becoming the family bread-winner whilst father becomes the home fire tender. The National Home Study Council has just completed a survey of 400 families in two industrial cities. The survey proved that 95 per cent of these families relied on the earnings of papa rather than mama. Deprived of father's earnings, only 10 of these families were able to struggle along at all without charity. There is no news in those facts. The feminists, the women bread-winners, do not dwell to much extent in the industrial classes. Women who work outside the home are generally those who need to do it least. And those whose families need their economic help are the very women who could never dream of earning money "outside the home."

Purple Piped

The modern mode of the silk blouse is cleverly interpreted in this one of tucked orchid crepe with pipings of purple.

MEMORIAL DAY

Some lived the battle through,
Some in its carnage fell,
And left to me and you
Their stirring tales to tell.
Long grows the noble roll
On history's cherished scroll.

Not to the evil thing
From which our heroes rose
Today our flowers we bring.
We come, remembering those
Who dared to fight and die
Our liberty to buy.

There was no glamor there
Amid the thundering guns.
War's face is never fair,

All these our glorious sons
Learned long before they fell
What poets seldom tell.

These are our heroes' graves
Where they in glory sleep!
Above them all there waves
The flag they died to keep.
And in the joy now ours
We come with memory's flowers.

Not to the roar of guns
Or sabres' cut and swing,
But to our hero sons
May blossoms now we bring.
God grant that never more
Need cannon flash and rear.

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNICK

REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The Tinymites stood on the shore and Copsy said, "Say, let's explore. There must be something funny on this island we can see. I'd really like to take a swim. I'm tired and feeling out of trim. I'm anybody really game to promptly follow me?"

"Sure! We'll all go," wee Copsy cried. "Come on, let's hurry right inside our funny little bathing suits before the sun fades out." So all the bunch were soon all set, and with a splash they got wet by jumping in the water with a happy yip and shout.

When they had played a little while, brave Copsy's face broke in a smile. "Hey, gaze right down the shore," said he. "I see a little boat. Let's get the thing and have some fun." So all the bunch were on the run, and when they reached it Copsy said, "I hope the thing will float."

"Twas just a foot or two on land, but every Tiny lent a hand, and soon they had it safely launched upon the winding stream. The whole bunch clamored for a seat, for rowing promised quite a treat. And then they all were startled when they heard poor Clowny scream.

In climbing in he'd been real rash, and fell back in the stream. Kersplash! Of course it kinda scared him 'cause the water seemed too cold. Then Copsy shouted, "Hey, don't weep. The water's only one foot deep. Walk over to the boat again and you can catch a hold."

Then Clowny made just one good try, and clambored in with quite a sigh. "Oh, gee," said he. "I'm soaking wet. This isn't any fun." But Copsy cheered him up a bit, by saying, "Don't fret. You can sit right out here in the sun and soon your clothes will be all dry."

(The Tinymites have a thrilling ride in the next story.)

Girl's Attempt To Write Fiction Ends In Failure

CHICAGO, May 30.—Catherine Miller is 21, and very pretty. But she has a great desire to write fiction. Her first attempt did not result so well, as it got her "in dutch" with her father and the police.

It was a black hand letter, inspired because her father would not let her go out with boy friends. She wrote a letter to him, signed it the "Black Hand," and demanded that he let her go out.

The father communicated with the police, and they finally had Catherine confess.

Her father then said if she wanted boy friends, she would have to get herself a steady job.

Now the police are looking for her, for the father says she has disappeared from home. "If she will return," he said, "she can have all the boy friends she wants, and can write detective stories, too."

The unforgettable vacation

Once to everyone there comes the vacation that touches the high-water mark of human enjoyment.

It may have been a trip to Niagara Falls, or a whirlwind round of gayeties in New York, or an automobile tour of Yellowstone, or a week in the Canadian Rockies, or a camping trip in the Maine woods, or a boat journey to Bermuda, or to the old world, or a priceless January in Florida.

Wherever it may have been—and the list is endless—the memories of that vacation will brighten your life forever.

You planned the trip of course, but don't you remember reading the traveling advertisements and sending for the "detailed information regarding accommodations, rates, etc."?

Remember how undecided the family was until almost the last minute when one especially attractive booklet settled the whole thing? Remember how the advertisements helped you select the right kind of clothing and baggage and letters of credit and travelers' checks and fishing tackle and camp equipment and cameras, and a veritable host of other things that made the whole affair so exciting and so enjoyable.

Advertising helped you to do the right things and to have the right things with which to do them.

YOUNG SIGNS BILLS BACKED BY VETERANS

SACRAMENTO, May 30.—The entire program of legislation sponsored by the veterans organizations of California received administrative sanction today, when Governor Young, in the presence of a group of state officials and American Legion officials and other veterans, signed a group of bills intended to protect the rights of veterans and to foster the prosperity of those in need of aid.

One of the most important of the bills is Assembly Bill No. 687, which was introduced by all of the World war veterans serving in the assembly. This bill increases the total amount that may be allotted to a veteran for the purchase of a farm or city home to $7500. The past limit has been $5000. The bill also greatly simplifies the procedure for appraisal of properties offered as security for such loans and allows more latitude to the veterans' welfare board in its operations under the act.

Assembly Bill No. 1238, by Vernon Gant, of Modesto, a veteran, raises the revolving fund for farm and home purchases from $500,000 to $750,000 to enable the board to act more rapidly on applications and also to take care of the additional outlay authorized by the increase of the individual loans under Assembly Bill 687.

Assembly Bill 650, by Percy West, of Sacramento county, a veteran, directs the closing of the public schools, except the University of California, and of all public offices, on Armistice day.

Assembly Bill 701, by George Rochester, of Los Angeles, a veteran, permits the federal government to intervene for the protection of veterans receiving allotments in certain cases of guardianship and similar matters, it being a bill to save veterans both cost and the possibility of falling into the hands of unscrupulous persons who might seek to fleece them.

Assembly Bill 607, by all of the World war veterans in the assembly, also is intended for the protection of veterans, and provides that the public administrator may serve as guardian of an incompetent veteran in cases where the estate is less than $1000. A very simple and inexpensive procedure is provided with the idea of protecting the men who have become unfit through war service.

Two assembly bills, 609 and 610, by Morgan Keston, of Los Angeles, a veteran, have to do with certain moneys received by the state from the rental or operation of properties taken by the state in tax procedures. The law now provides that such income goes to the general fund.

Assembly Bill No. 1179, by Mrs. Cora Woodbridge, was included in the list signed today, although it is not strictly a Legion measure. It sets aside $4000 from the funds heretofore allotted to the exploitation of California at the Nevada exposition this summer. The $4000 is to be used to erect a marker at the California-Nevada boundary on the Victory highway. Because it is intended to make of this marker a patriotic monument, the matter fell into the general program of the bills signed today.

There are two senate bills included in the list. Senate Bill 177, by Inman, of Sacramento, a veteran, extends certain privileges with reference to licenses heretofore allowed only disabled veterans so that now they are permitted to all veterans. They will have the effect of exempting veterans from certain fees required for pending and similar enterprises.

Senate Bill 476, by McKinley, of Los Angeles, a veteran, is a technical amendment relating to the rights of veterans who are subject to guardianship, and, like other bills of the program, it is planned to protect the right of man whose war disabilities might cause them to fall easy prey to sharpers.

French Minister Is 25 Years In Public Service

PARIS, May 30.—Foreign Minister Briand, who recently celebrated his "silver" wedding to politics after 25 years of public life, is a confirmed bachelor. He declared he expects to live to celebrate his golden jubilee.

An interesting feature of French politics is the lack of friendship between Briand and Georges Clemenceau.

MacCormick Will Remain American

QUEENSTOWN, May 30.—"I am an American citizen, and as much as I love Ireland, I never intend giving up that status," declared John MacCormack on his arrival here with his wife and daughter Gwendolyn.

MacCormack's statement clears up a report which has been current in the Free State that the famous singer is planning to revert to Irish citizenship.

He also denied that he intends to participate in the approaching elections. He will remain in Ireland throughout the summer, giving two charity concerts in response to a request from President Cosgrave.

Two of the Santa Ana Night baseball league's four undefeated teams and both of them red hot favorites for championship laurels are the F. C. Blauer Grocery and the Santa Ana Typewriter Kids—collide in the game that opens the second week of lunar activities here this evening.

This set to originally was booked for tonight but on account of Memorial day the Santa Ana baseball commission set all games back one day. This was satisfactory because the Santa Ana and Orange County league representatives, again take to the field Friday night.

The Blauer-Tiernan pastime will be followed Wednesday with a match between the Platt Silverwings and the First National Bank; Thursday, with a tiff between the Santa Ana Firemen and the Santa Ana Lumber company; and Friday, when the Chandler Furniture company tackles the George Dutton Fords.

A resume of the first week of the race discloses that most of the teams are evenly balanced and the latest race in the history of the sport here is anticipated. The First National Bank, the only club that was beaten by more than one team in the entire first week's schedule, already has bolstered its lineup and should be set to hold its own in coming contests.

The All-Stars, holding down second place in the county circuit, travel to Orange Friday.

RICKARD QUIET ON LOCALE FOR NEXT BIG BOUT

BY HENRY L. FARRELL

NEW YORK, May 30.—Speaking of his heavyweight championship fight, Tex Rickard has not committed himself definitely to any particular place for the ceremonies. His casual references to the lease he holds on the Yankee stadium have been taken to mean that he will give his New York the treat.

There are any number of men in Philadelphia, however, possessed of good sized rolls who will put up even money or better that Gene Tunney will defend his title in the Seagull stadium where he won it last September from Jack Dempsey. Philadelphia, they will tell you there, has not been named definitely by Rickard because he does not want to arouse enmity in New York until he learns that he cannot toss in another elimination bout in New York before his big show.

It is no secret that Rickard would like to match Jack Dempsey and Jack Sharkey for a semi-final in the elimination tournament in the Yankee stadium. The gate would be worth at least $500,000.

But Rickard doesn't know what Dempsey is going to do and apparently the former champion doesn't know himself. The breaks that came when Sharkey plastered Jim Maloney were so good for Rickard that he doesn't care much which way Dempsey turns.

Sharkey is now a fine card for a championship bout without lifting another fist. Still, if Dempsey wants to come back, Rickard will not toss away that gate and Dempsey can't demand the money that he could have been guaranteed a month ago. Rickard obviously has made him some kind of offer but no papers have been signed.

From the opinions expressed in Philadelphia, the paying customers there would prefer to see Sharkey in the ring with Tunney.

Johnston Takes Measure of Doeg

SAN FRANCISCO, May 30.—"Little Bill" Johnston, defending his Pacific Coast tennis championship, defeated John Doeg, of Santa Monica, and advanced to the final round of the tournament. The match, one of the toughest in Johnston's career, ended with scores of 8-6, 4-6, 6-2, 5-7, 6-4. Gerald Stratford, who will be Johnston's opponent in the final, defeated Sherman Lockwood, 6-2, 6-3, 6-2.

PACIFIC COAST MEET MILE TO BE THRILLER

OREGON AGGIES FAMOUS MILERS CLAYTON, BELL, COACH BUTLER, SISON AND BUTTS

JOHNNY DIVINE - WASHINGTON STATE

The west's outstanding milers will clash in the first race on the program of the Pacific Coast Intercollegiate at the Los Angeles coliseum next Saturday. The winner will have to run better than 4:20 to win in the opinion of experts.

With the Pacific coast boasting of probably the greatest group of distance stars in any section of the country this year, the mile at the Pacific Coast Intercollegiate here next Saturday is expected to be the most thrilling race staged in the nation during 1927. The finish should be just as close, more uncertain as to winner and contested for by a greater array of stars than even the sprints at this meet.

Captain Arnold Gillette of Montana is defending champion in both events. He ran 4:21.7 and 9:30.4 for records in both races in the 1926 coast meet. Rival coaches admit that he probably ran 4:20 and 9:27 this year but a number of mentors believe they have men who can beat him.

In the mile, Gillette will run against the same three men who trailed him to places last year, namely Captain Royce Clayton (O.A.C.), Les Schwoboda (Stanford) and Ray Williams (W.S.C.) who ran in that order. Clayton is staging a come-back year. He has already run 4:25. Schwoboda took second in the mile at the 1926 L.C.A.A. and has run 4:23 this season. Williams has done 4:25 this year.

In addition Gillette meets Alex McKinnon of Stanford who has done 4:23.8 and has defeated both Schwoboda and Chesley Unruh of E. C. Unruh is a slow developer. At the end of the 1925 season he was down to 4:31.8. McKinnon, Unruh and Schwoboda claim they can run 4:20 by June 4.

O.A.C. will also have her other famous milers of the championship 4-mile relay team on hand. Clayton, Bell, Sison and Butts ran 18 minutes 4-5 seconds at the Drake relays April 30. Atwood, Scovel, a 4:23 man of Occidental, and Melvin Burke (Utah Aggies) Rocky Mountain champion at 4:28, will also be in that race.

BOXING, WRESTLING CLASSES TO BE OFFERED IN COLLEGE, HIGH SCHOOL HERE IN FALL

Advanced instruction in special phases of physical training, including boxing and wrestling, will be open to students of Santa Ana high school and college next year, according to a tentative schedule for fall gymnasium classes announced today by Walter Scott, supervisor of physical education in the city schools.

Courses will be offered junior and senior boys only. Entering sophomore students will be required to take the general gymnasium course.

Scott said that five courses will be open to advanced high school students from which they may elect one. The courses are in heavy apparatus gymnastics, tennis, wrestling, boxing and swimming. Instructors are to be chosen to supervise the training in the sports. William Foote will have charge of the heavy apparatus and tumbling classes. Other instructors have not yet definitely been assigned their duties.

Gym classes will follow the present arrangement of meeting three times a week. Twice a week the students will take up their specialty and the third meeting will be devoted to mass exercise in games and formal work.

Before graduation, each senior will be required to have taken one semester of training in the arts of self defense, either boxing or wrestling.

The general sophomore course will include decathlon athletics, calisthenics, posture exercises, games and swimming.

College students, formerly given a general course, will have open to them courses in boxing and wrestling combined, tennis, apparatus gymnastics, swimming and hygienic gymnastics.

Full advantage of the facilities made possible by the new Andrews gymnasium, erected at an expenditure of $118,000, is being taken in arranging for the physical education program.

BUD TAYLOR READY FOR SUGGS MATCH

LOS ANGELES, May 30.—Bud Taylor, world's bantamweight champion, and Chick Suggs, Negro featherweight, completed training today for their battle of tomorrow night.

Since the fighters are to scale 124 pounds at 2 p. m. tomorrow neither has been handicapped by the "drying out" procedure, and both camps are confident of the final outcome.

The fight is Taylor's thirteenth since coming to California. He was victor in 11 starts, losing but one, and then to Jimmy McLarnin on a foul. He has never met a colored battler before.

Santa Ana Bears Tie Harbor Team

The Santa Ana Bears and San Pedro played nine innings to a 9 to 9 tie at San Pedro yesterday. Errors cost each team a victory. The local club's lineup follows: Aguirre, p; Mawson, c; Varela, 1b; Rocha, 2b; Jimenez, 3b; Castro, ss; Munoz, lf; Sanchez, cf; Luna, rf.

On the St. Louis club is Tom Zachary, a left hander, one of the smartest pitchers in the game, yet having just ordinary stuff. As he pitches, the rival team moans at its inability to hit him. The opposition doesn't give him credit for his uncanny control and a little bit better stuff than it seems. Collins says Zachary is the toughest pitcher in the American league for him to register basehits against. As Collins in a recent game at St. Louis was returning to the bench after having popped up following several other failures to hit, he shot this one at Zachary:

"Why don't you try pitching with your right hand—you might then have enough stuff for a fellow to hit the ball out of the infield."

Material for Varsity May Be Brought to Light in Oliver's Spring Program

If numbers count, the juniors will win the interclass football championship in the series of contests which will be launched tomorrow at Santa Ana high school at 3:30 o'clock with the junior team meeting the sophomore eleven. The juniors with their powerful backfield and line, including most of the next year's gridiron heroes, are heavy favorites.

Dudley Shaw, the curly-haired quarterback "find" and James Musick, hard-hitting line-plunger, are joint captains of the junior squad. Such players as Eugene Olsen, Roger Hearn, Wylie Carlyle, Eric Twist, Cliff Belding and others are in the lineup.

All of the class teams have been holding signal practice and running through plays under the supervision of their coaches during the past week. The junior-sophomore clash is the only game that has been arranged but the others will be played later in the week, Gerald ("Tex") Oliver, gridiron mentor, announced today.

The much discussed battle between the graduating football players and the mole-skin athletes who will compose next year's team, including the lettermen, is to be held Friday afternoon, June 2, along with the program for celebrating "home coming" day for the alumni of the Santa Ana high school.

In workouts during the past week, Coach Oliver has found much promising material for next year's eleven. Dudley Shaw looks like a cinch for the signal barking role on the varsity.

Despite the fact that the "wise money" is on the juniors to win from the sophomores, the underclass team has some good athletes capable of furnishing a terrific battle. George Berry is the sophomore leader. Neither the sophomores nor the seniors have the large number of experienced reserves from which to draw that the juniors have, however. If a few of the senior players are forced out of the game, the team mascot will have to be sent in. It was facetiously pointed out at athletic headquarters. The senior captain is Harvey Durkee.

The chances for the senior team in the series was improved when Coach Oliver granted permission for nine semester athletes to play. This step was taken to even the disadvantage under which the upperclass men were laboring in having many of their athletes barred through the ruling that lettermen could not play.

The critical battle for the interclass championship will be between the juniors and seniors, it is believed.

S. A. Mermen Fail To Place In Meet

Santa Ana swimmers who were entered in the Southern California high school aquatic festival last Friday and Saturday at Long Beach did not place, although Burton Winslow, Santa Ana Class "C" athlete, qualified for the finals by taking second in his heat of the 50 yard back stroke race. Paul Gustin, cetacean in the dive for distance, did not succeed in qualifying in the varsity events.

30 Swimmers Off In Bay Marathon

ALAMEDA, May 30.—With a $1000 prize to the winner, 30 swimmers today awaited the start signal in the Alameda marathon, through the waters of San Francisco Bay. Leo Purcell of Alameda and Bryan Summers of Oakland, both contestants in the Catalina channel swim, are among the entries. A $500 award will go to the first woman to finish the distance.

A TRIBUTE AND A PLEDGE

This is Memorial Day, when grey shadows march out of the past, and the tramping of ghostly feet is sensed again; when those we have loved and lost awhile hover about us in the beauty of youth, or the glory of age.

The wreaths of Shiloh and Antietam and Gettysburg; of San Juan Hill and The Maine; of Flanders and the Argonne, form their misty battalions beside the faintly limned heroes of Cerro Gordo; of New Orleans, Valley Forge and the Brandywine.

This anniversary was born to immortalize the dead of one war. It must and it does immortalize the deeds of that war and the deeds of such deeds throughout the full span of American military history. They are all our dead. They are all heroes.

To us, their heroism is a bit finer than any other—unmatched among the nations of the world. Other nations have lost heroic soldiers, but no other nation has offered its blood in so pure a spirit of nobility. Altruism, it has been called, but that seems, somehow, too mild a word for these men of ours, who died for liberty and right—who literally gave their lives for their brother. Each of them fell in a holy cause, for a principle unclouded by selfish taint. That, then, is why we view their sacrifice as more sacred than mere loss of life in battle.

We dedicate this day to them. They live again in our thankful thoughts, these grey shadows of the past. Today is theirs alone.

For other heroes whom we must not forget, there are other days for remembering. We have just worn the poppy for those who gave all but their lives; we should remember them every other day in the year.

But this one day is for the grey shadows, marching out of the past to their annual review before the mighty seat of Liberty they guarded so well. May God keep them.

Thus our tribute and our pledge to the quick and the dead. We give it with the thought that we are, in the only way possible, doing something for the men who have fought and lived and fought and died—for us. Yet as a matter of fact the homage that we pay today is something that means far more to us than it does to them.

The men who gave their lives on the shell-swept slopes of Gettysburg, in the murky tangle of The Wilderness and in the boggy depths of the Argonne Forest do not need our tribute. They have, as we put it, gone to their reward, and there is little we can do for them.

It is we who are the gainers by what we do today. For it is true, now as of old, that we grow like what we contemplate. A nation takes shape according to its ideals; men and women without intending to, take on the characteristics that they respect most.

And so, under the impression that we are giving, we receive. The service that American soldiers rendered on the battlefields of two hemispheres did not cease there. They left for us memories of heroism and self-sacrifice, of gallant manhood and sublime courage; and we, remembering, are better for it.

But it is not the dead alone who give us these noble memories. Today there pass in review before us, not only the shadowy wreaths of the men who fell at Chancellorsville, at Shiloh, at Santiago, at Belleau Wood and at Cantigny; with them, intermingled, are their comrades, who fought beside them, but who lived to fight and serve again. These men, still alive, are men to whom we owe a great debt. They have served us doubly; whatever we can do to repay that debt is our duty and nothing less.

We will pay that debt. We cannot do anything else. The men who have defended us may rest assured of that. Today, drinking again of the inspiration that is given us by the mighty parade of living and dead, we may pledge ourselves once more to its full payment.

CO-OPERATION'S VALUE

"The United States must co-operate or die," says Newton D. Baker, former secretary of war. "The next war will sweep democracy off the earth. The last one has left all but a few countries in the hands of dictators. Already the world is full of apprehensions for its security."

Business used to think that conflict was inevitable, the order of nature. Nowadays business stops fighting business, gets together in larger units and profits by united service. If so competitive a thing as business can co-operate for its own benefit, it may not be too much to believe that nations, whether formally or informally, can co-operate for their common benefit.

There is a strong tendency that way now. It shows in many ways, of which the League of Nations is only one.

The instinct to fight is powerful, but the instinct of self-preservation may be more powerful still, operating to make nations find practical means of getting along together internationally as they do domestically.

That cannot come all at once, but is something for leaders of mankind to work toward. The worst obstacle is found in the suspicion, prejudice and obstinacy of individuals. When men learn to think co-operatively, then co-operative machinery will work.

PROSPERITY OF 1928

The various statisticians and business doctors and prophets who seek to guide our business destiny are now forecasting prosperity for 1928. Perhaps this is offered to stave off the psychology of depression which bids fair to settle over the country without any apparently adequate reason in the year now passing. Perhaps there is some sound, though esoteric basis for it.

This much is certain: The prosperity of 1928 can be built on only one foundation—and that is the sound labor and foresight of 1927. It's the man and woman who do their little bit of the pattern with good sense and honesty and careful industry that make the country comfortable in the year to come. Luck may run a bit of bright color in a border now and then. But it's the careful choosing of the threads and the steady, faithful weaving of the main fabric that gives the strength and wear.

Watch Out For Fruit Fly

Fresno Republican

Federal officials, possibly under pressure from fruit importers of New York, are giving attention to the question of lowering certain quarantine requirements against Spain and other Mediterranean countries.

This on representation that the danger from the Mediterranean fruit fly is over.

The people of California, through their business organizations and political representatives, should be very alert on this matter.

We can be frank. We can admit that quarantine exclusion is in a measure a protective act, to keep out competing fruit.

Every quarantine measure should be applied honestly. There should be no pretences. We should not pretend that there is a pest danger and on this pretext exclude competing goods.

But we should not be bluffed into standing up so straight as to lean backward.

There is a terrible danger from European fruit pests. These should be excluded, no matter what free traders may see to put over. We should ask for tariff protection for protection's sake.

But we should ask for quarantine protection for protection's sake as well, whenever the quarantine is justified, as it has been in the case of the Mediterranean fruit fly.

No possible use of foreign fruit could justify admission of fruit pests into America to destroy our orchards or to reduce the productivity of our farms.

Mistaken Punishment

Washington Star

The "sentencing" of persons to good things goes on apace. The latest instance is that of a 13-year-old boy at Wheeling, who stole 400 pennies from a church contribution box, and has been sentenced to attend Sunday school, make good marks in school and to write to the judge every Christmas and July 4.

The idea of the justice, that such a boy needed Sunday school, is not a bad one, theoretically, but actually it will not work out. The average man, remembering his own youth, may say so much with confidence. Offhand, it will appeal to him as a mistaken form of punishment.

Things that are good in themselves ought not to be used as forms of punishment. A human being is a human being, whether he is 13 years old or 96, and punishments are held by all men as punishments, nothing more or less. Feelings of resentment will arise.

It is questionable, therefore, whether a boy should be forcibly injected into a Sunday school class. Will he not sit there and twiddle his toes at the teacher? The average man—still recalling the days of his own youth—thinks he will!

Such a punishment will solidify his evident feeling against ecclesiastical institutions, and may help end in turning him against religion for all time. No judge has a right to so tamper with human feelings.

Huntington Gift to State

San Francisco Chronicle

Henry E. Huntington had the rare combination of inherited wealth, sound business judgment, a genuine taste for the fine arts and a discriminating sense in acquiring invaluable examples of the work of the masters.

His greatest service to posterity probably was in assembling his Americana, original manuscripts which are vastly more valuable because of their being in one great collection, available for research by the historical scholar. But for Mr. Huntington's zeal and discrimination these manuscripts would now be spread far and wide.

But rivaling his service in this respect is his bringing together in America rare European manuscripts and beautiful examples of the early book-maker's art. It is a credit to attach a price tag to such a collection as the Huntington library, but were it to be broken up it would bring a sum estimated at $50,000,000.

Fortunately it will never be on the market, for he has made it a heritage to the people of California. It will be a fitting monument to the man who conceived the collecting of it and the equally fine thought of so disposing of it to the public good.

INDUSTRIAL POISONS AFFECTING THE NERVOUS SYSTEM

One of the most common industrial poisons is carbon disulphide, used in the manufacture of thin rubber articles, artificial silk and in the preparation of cellulose.

When this substance is taken into the body, it seems to have a particular effect on the nerve tissue, so that the patients become paralyzed, sometimes show symptoms of insanity, and sometimes blindness due to its action on the optic nerve.

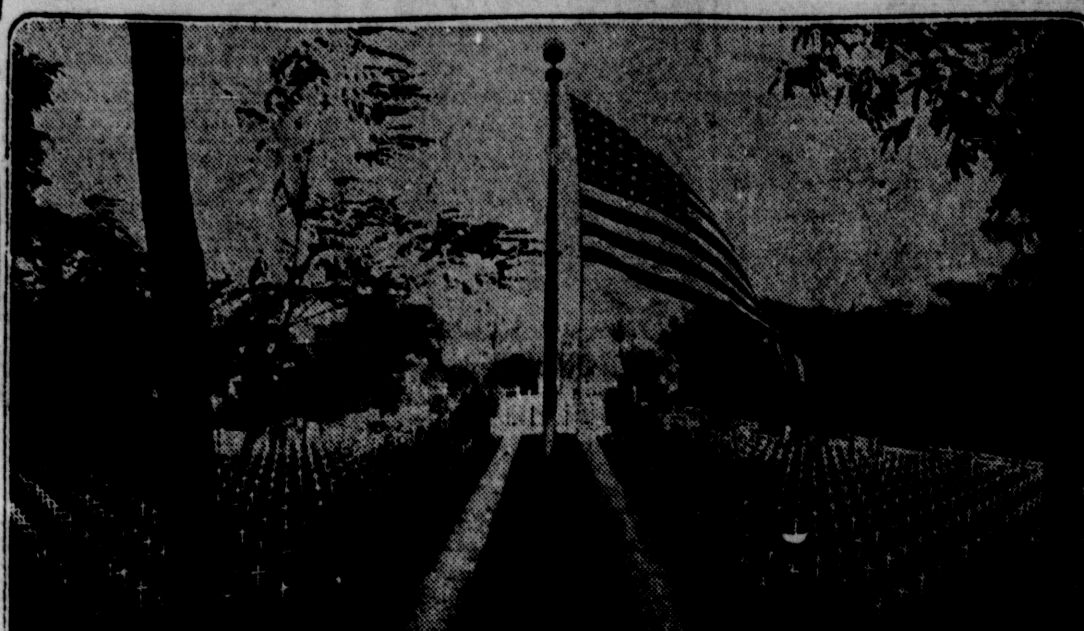

It will be remembered that wood alcohol seems also to have a special affinity for the optic nerve, and that it also produces blindness.

Illuminating gas contains another important poison, carbon monoxide, which is responsible for sudden death when it is inhaled from the exhaust of motor cars in a closed garage. In 1882 an investigator announced that he had discovered changes in the brain following poisoning with carbon monoxide and recently numerous instances have been described in which such poisonings have resulted in serious disturbances of the brain.

In addition to mental disturbances, this poison may also result in blindness and in producing changes of great seriousness in the blood.

It would be possible to list dozens of other poisons which produce serious changes in the body when they are taken in. They include all of the combinations of the coal tar derivatives, many of the poisons developed in the war industry, particularly in the manufacture of powder and benzene and its derivatives.

Benzene causes dangerous changes in the blood, and it is a question whether any system of ventilation can possibly control the fumes of benzene. A committee appointed to investigate the use of benzene in industry recommended that some substitute be had for it whenever possible.

MEMORIAL DAY

"The brave men, living and dead . . . have consecrated this ground far beyond our poor power to add or subtract."
—Lincoln at Gettysburg.

In Flanders fields the poppies blow
Between the crosses, row on row,
That mark our place;

—John McCrae: In Flanders Fields.

In Memory

"Four score and seven years ago our forefathers brought forth on this continent a new nation, conceived in liberty, and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal. Now we are engaged in a great civil war, testing whether that nation, or any nation so conceived and so dedicated, can long endure. We are met on a great battlefield of that war. We have come to dedicate a portion of that field as a final resting place for those who here gave their lives that that nation might live. It is altogether fitting and proper that we should do this. But in a larger sense, we cannot dedicate—we cannot consecrate—we cannot hallow—this ground. The brave men, living and dead, who struggled here, have consecrated it far above our poor power to add or detract. The world will little note nor long remember what we say here, but it can never forget what they did here. It is for us, the living, rather to be dedicated here to the unfinished work which they who fought here have thus far so nobly advanced. It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us—that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion; that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain; that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom; and that government of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from the earth."

—Abraham Lincoln.

Worth While Verse

TO THE AMERICAN FLAG

I.
Unfold! oh banner glorious,
That all the world may see.
Call every breeze
From land and seas,
Thy messenger to be.
Speak with thy voice victorious
To every human heart.
Tell all, that Truth and Honor won,
And Power and Place are but begun,
If each will do his part.

II.
Float on! oh flag of beauty,
Let thy reflected glory
Bring back again
To lives of men
The urging of thy story
To present need and duty.
Tell them beyond past dreams,
The fruits that right will yield;
That Peace and Trust will stand revealed,
Where Justice flows in healing streams.
—Mrs. F. T. Porter, 640 North Van Ness, Santa Ana, Calif.

III.
Lead on! oh banner victorious,
Thy warfare is not done,
Till every wrong is mended
And hat and lust are ended,
Our fight is but begun.
Today, dark wrongs notorious,
Still father tears and shame,
Oh, lead a strife against greed
and sin,
Till we a final victory win.
To flourish thy name.

IV.
Oh, blood-bought flag of valiant sires,
Still let thy colors flame.
Rekindle hearts today;
That we beneath thy folds may pay
Deeds to increase thy fame.
We little know
The debt we owe;
But pray our children's children still Find peace and joy beneath thee still.
We meet God's heavenly grace to know.

Little Benny's Note Book

By Lee Page

Today after lunch I felt even less like going back to school than usual, and I remembered my sore knee I had the other day and I looked and I could still see the mark where it was skinned, me thinking, G, I wouldn't be surprised if that still hurt.

And the more I thawed about it the more it seemed possible, and I started to limp around to see how it felt, me thinking, G wizz I believe it really does hurt.

Wich jest then ma sed, Benny, wat are you limping about, theres nothing new a matter with you my goodness is there?

No mam, nothing new, but you know that skinned knee I had, well I believe it still hurts, I believe it needs a rest, I sed.

Well then you can jest disbelieve it, because that knee was all healed up days ago, ma sed, and I sed, Well hohley smokes ma, I wouldn't be limping for nothing, would I?

Goodness knows wat you'd be doing, I've known you all your life and I cant tell, ma sed.

Meaning I've got misterious ways, and jest then my sister Gladdis looked out the window saying, My stars, if there izent that one leg organ grinder and his crazy munny-kegen.

Being one of my favorite sites to watch, and I sed, G, war? and I quick ran down stairs and out in the street as if I never even herd of a limp, and no organ grinder wasent down there anything of the kind, and jest then I herd something and it was ma up at her window saying, Hows your knee, Benny?

Darn that guy Gladdis, I sed. Not saying how it was, and I wawked half ways to skool with a small limp jest out of independents and the rest of the way without eny on account of forgetting it.

The Gas Tax Increase

Governor Young has made good his pledge to provide means of financing the completion of California's highway system by signing two bills introduced by Senator Breed and passed by the Legislature. One of these, Senate Bill No. 518, provides for an additional one-cent per gallon gasoline tax which is to be used exclusively for new state highway construction. The other, Senate Bill No. 519, divides the counties of California into two groups, classifies the highways in the state system under two heads, primary and secondary, and provides for an equitable distribution of the funds raised by the one-cent gas tax between the two groups of counties.

Thus the long controversy over methods of financing highway construction comes to an end, for undoubtedly the action of the Legislature and of the Governor will be accepted as final, and the broad program of highway work which was halted by failure of the Richardson administration to bring all factions together and enact acceptable legislation can be resumed. It is estimated that the one-cent tax on gasoline will produce $10,000,000 per year over a twelve-year period for highway work. This with federal aid, which it is expected will be continued, will practically complete the system as it now stands. The old two-cent gasoline tax will be continued but no part of the revenues thus derived may be used by the state for new construction. The two-cent gas tax funds are divided equally between the state and the various counties from which the funds emanate. County boards of supervisors have been enabled to extend their county road systems gradually until their entire areas are pretty well blanketed through aid of their portion of the two-cent gasoline tax. The state's portion is used exclusively for maintenance of improved state highways.

The enactment of the gasoline tax increase stands as one of the big, progressive accomplishments of the Young administration. Governor Young proceeded in this matter with courage and singleness of purpose and with the aid of the two great automobile associations was quite happy in harmonizing all factions in support of the program. The Governor frankly stated at the outset that efforts to add to the present mileage of the state highway system would but complicate the situation and endanger the success of any move to solve the problem of highway finance. And so, although many new state highway additions, some of them admittedly very meritorious, were proposed, they were very firmly but inoffensively rejected and the gasoline tax increase went through with general popular support.

The gasoline tax places the burden of highway construction where it belongs, on the users of the highway. It enables the state to build on a pay-as-you-go plan and obtain one dollar's worth of road construction for every dollar of public funds expended whereas under the bonding plan the larger share of the dollar goes into interest payments.

The classification of highways according to traffic needs served is logical and wise. The increased tax will be paid by the motorist cheerfully and gladly. A few years hence the motorist will scarcely give thought to the fact that he is being taxed to the extent when he goes to the gasoline station to get his tank filled. Excepting when methods of financing road construction are under discussion, the subject of the gasoline tax will probably not even come to mind very often.

Governor Young is to be congratulated on affixing his signature to these two bills.

Did You Ever Stop to Think

By Edson R. Walte, Secretary,

Commerce

THAT the secret of the success of a business lies in the quality of its merchandise and amount of advertising done.

THAT quality builds a business when assisted by good advertising. THAT the selling of some merchandise must be done by suggestion. Suggest new merchandise through the advertising columns of the newspapers.

THAT a business that advertises consistently and persistently never travels on crutches.

THAT newspaper advertising gives the public confidence in a business.

THAT confidence helps to insure success.

THAT there is nothing that attracts as much attention to a business as newspaper advertising.

THAT when strangers look for the best place to buy they read the ads, for they know that the best business concerns advertise.

The Clothes Chute

By SHIRLEY RODMAN WILLIAMS.

FROM the general attitude of some daddies around the home one might think they held no more conception about how things get done than perhaps by magic. One said in my hearing, "Why, I give my wife plenty to run the house on. I expect things done, of course. Beyond that I don't want to be bothered!" How much he is missing of the little intimate busy-nesses of the home! How little he knows that "plenty to run the house on" can never take the place in his wife's life that a little understanding appreciation would fill. If the daddies only could know how very far a little appreciation goes! Any real woman would be far happier with less of the material things and a little more of that which makes life worth while. I wonder, too, what effect the example of this lack of interest is going to have upon the children. What attitude will the children adopt toward the mother who is expected to just keep doing things?

THERE'S a little white door in our upstairs hall
That's a magic door, so my Daddy thinks.
If you peek 'way inside there is nothing at all
But a great long hole that just yawns and blinks.
He throws his soiled clothes through the little white door,
Then when he goes dressing, why there, in his drawer
Are his things in a pile,
And he cries with a smile,
"Hurrah, and Three Cheers for the Little White Door!"

I'd think it was magic, but I've seen the end
Of the very long shoot with its rub-a-dub tube,
I've seen all the soap, and our wash lady bend
A-washing the things with the softest rub.
And Daddy believes that the little White Door Makes magic that place his clean things in his I'll not tell him for years,
'Cause it's fun when he cheers,
"Hurrah, and Three Cheers for the Little White Door!"
